KIDNAPER SEIZES GIRL IN OAKLAND

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—While authorities of three counties continued their search for 3-year-old Barbara Jane Osborn, retaining hope that they may solve the mystery of her disappearance five days ago, the San Francisco bay district today was startled by report of a second kidnapping on the east bay shore in Oakland.

Alice Bussie, an 8-year-old school girl, was whisked away in a curtailed automobile from in front of her grandmother's home.

The grandmother, attracted by the child's screams, hurried out in time to see the kidnaper's car disappear. She gave futile chase in her own car for several blocks.

Search for the Osborn child, who disappeared from her grandmother's side in a downtown department store, spread today to Sacramento and Yolo counties, where police and sheriff's deputies made veiled investigations of several Gypsy camps.

RULE LAID DOWN TO TRAFFIC COPS

SACRAMENTO, May 19.—State traffic officers seeking election to city or county offices in their home districts must either resign their positions or obtain leave of absence or quit politics.

This was the edict issued today to officers employed by the state division of motor vehicles by Will H. Marsh, chief.

"We do not want to discourage employees from aspiring to advancement, but any employee seeking election at the August primaries will either have to resign or obtain leave of absence. It is impossible for a man engaged in enforcement work to attempt to enforce a law against those through whom he seeks political advancement," Marsh said.

Stokes' son, W. E. D. Stokes Jr., was with him when he died.

ARMS LIMITATION UNDER DISCUSSION

GENEVA, May 19.—The preparatory commission on disarmament, meeting here under League of Nations auspices, today discussed the point where arms limitation should stop.

Viscount Cecil, representing Great Britain, urged that peace-time armies only should be considered.

France insisted that in limiting peace-time effectiveness, the armed strength of potential enemies and the ease of attack of each nation should be considered.

Shower Bath Is Replacing Tub

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—The shower bath is fast displacing the tub in all American homes, according to Albert Wilson, San Francisco, vice president of the National Association of Master Plumbers. Wilson is a delegate to the annual convention here of the State Association of Master Plumbers.

"The tub is impractical because it does not adequately accommodate tall persons, and is really dangerous because it is too slippery," said Wilson.

"The shower bath is more economical and sanitary also," he added.

Movie Chatterbox

Temporarily at least, a man may be whatever man his imagination can build him. And so Edmund Lowe, dapper romantic lead of many pictures, has transformed himself for "What Price Glory" into "Sergeant Quirt," perhaps the "hardest" soldier ever presented for entertainment purposes.

Now Lowe, cultured, suave, considerate, and trained to the stage from college days, looks about as tough as, let's say, the sculptured Apollo Belvedere. Which fact, coupled with his long screen identification in bland, heroic roles, led Hollywood to question the Fox company's judgment in selecting him for "Quirt."

When a man's ability to be tough is challenged, the primitive ego is offended, and so it was with more than unusual professional pride that Lowe threw himself into the character of the sardonic Marine sergeant.

Without previous military experience, he quickly acquired the drill proficiency, the barracks manner and the soldier swagger, under tutelage of a regular army "top cutter." And now he's in fighting trim and fighting mood—so captivated by the military lure that he intends joining a citizens' training camp upon the first opportunity.

"Quirt" is not a ruffian," explains Lowe. "He's a hard-boiled slacker. He takes a devilish delight in out-smarting his fellow-in-arms, 'Captain Plagg.' And he can look most angelic when he's most satanic—as some of our modern city gunmen look when they are bumping off a victim."

ARMY OFFICERS

LOOK FOR WORK

PARIS, May 19.—Forced by the increasing cost of living to eke out precarious additions to their slender pay by odd occupations out of hours, many army officers in the Paris district have taken to taxi-cab driving or have obtained positions in stores and offices.

Many army officers, earning in the neighborhood of from 1000 to 1500 francs a month ($31 to $44), have taken lessons in bootmaking and tailoring, so that they can repair their own boots and uniforms.

The Petit Journal finds not only army officers of the rank of captain driving taxicabs and private cars, but also engaged in washing automobiles and carriages, acting as messengers and clerking in stores after regular hours of duty.

U. S. CITIZENS

INVESTING IN

PARIS HOTELS

PARIS, May 19.—When the 277 American members of the International Hotel Men's congress wound up their Paris week they needed their day of rest. It is supposed some of the American hotel men prominent in the congress have permanent interest in some of the new Paris hotels.

In the center of the Grand Boulevard, the new building of the Hotel Comodore is already in full sight from the outside. It has been built up quickly but solidly in the space provided by demolishing old crowded city blocks to prolong the Boulevard Haussmann into the Grand Boulevard. This furnishes a broad, straight, tree-lined avenue to the rich residential quarters at the Arc de Triomphe.

Business and Fashion

Here was the east end of the famous Boulevard promenade. It is now on the border line, where Paris trades and business push up to the worlds of Paris fashion and luxury and pleasure.

In August, all this will be opened to traffic when the new Paris American hotel is ready for its international public. For in all these enterprises, there is no question of limiting American business in Paris to the passing, vanishing American crowd.

It is a large building. There will be 400 rooms, each with bathroom and appliances, behind the white, ornately sculptured, amply windowed stone walls now visible. Simply the name and the capital supposed to be invested in it will make of it an enduring monument of the American invasion of Paris.

America Hotels Open

Some of these new Paris American hotels are open. They conform their scale of prices to the average Paris standard for their own class.

Opposite the American church in the Rue du Berri, there is the "Hotel California" (not California) as the French write it) going up rapidly.

The new Hotel St. Regis has a New York sound. It has an American public and is run by the successor of Frederic, who used to name after his rich Americans the crushed duck so famous on his bill of fare—"Canard a la Wamamaker," etc.

No Fear for French Solvency

It is clear that American capitalists have no fear for French solvency or stability or for the chances of money making in Paris.

A hotel man from Leadville, who has been at the congress, says, without having looked over these new establishments: "A large American hotel—with a bath for each room—might prove a profitable investment. Of course, French service would be retained, as they excel in this."

Czar Complains That World Has Forgotten Him

ROME, May 19.—"Heavy clouds are hanging over Europe and God's infinite benevolence only can avert fresh scourges," said Ferdinand of Coburg, the once powerful czar of all the Bulgarians, now a white haired and a curved figure, living in the greatest obscurity in a local hotel, to a party of newspapermen who had come to interview him.

"What do you want to talk to me for," he said, "I am a lone old man whom the world has already forgotten."

The ex-czar receives few or no callers, and those who succeed in approaching him, owe their success to a capuchin monk, Father Celestino, who acts as a private secretary and reads religious books to Ferdinand, whose sight is getting gradually poorer. The ex-king, who used to surround himself with gorgeously dressed army officers and beautiful ladies, now has as every-day companions, besides Father Celestino, a number of monks and priests, who help him in his daily religious exercises.

This saintly party has just come back from a pilgrimage to the most noted shrines in north and central Italy, where they had accompanied the repentant sinner, who was once a cynical rationalist.

The newspapermen, however, noticed that Ferdinand hasn't given up yet his fondness for earthly trivialities. During the brief intervals of conversation, in fact, he placed on a table before them a handful of rubies, emeralds, diamonds and other precious stones, which he kept loosely in his pocket, and composed with them several geometrical designs, his face beaming with delight at the sight of the treasure.

Maharajah Will Sell His Jewels

LONDON, May 19.—Royal Indian jewels, which one estimates at a value of $175,000,000, are soon to be offered for sale in London and gem buyers representing dealers in all parts of the world are awaiting the event with great interest. The owner of the gems is the former Maharajah of Indore, who abdicated rather than submit to an inquiry into his alleged complicity with an attempt to abduct Mumtaz Begum, his favorite dancing girl. The treasures, to be sold to the highest bidder, are the accumulation of generations.

Kills Self In Fourth Attempt

SAN DIEGO, May 19.—The fourth attempt of Mrs. Freda Marie Radell, formerly of San Francisco, to take her own life was successful today.

Her husband, Frank Radell, who slept in another room, found his wife dead in her bed, her throat slashed and a razor lying near.

She had been in poor health for some time and had told neighbors that she would end her own life, according to Coroner Schuyler C. Kelly. She also left a note.

Former attempts to kill herself, as related to Coroner Kelly, were by means of a razor in San Francisco and here, and by starting an auto motor in a closed garage here.

Bambino Knocks Two Home Runs

NEW YORK, May 19.—Babe Ruth knocked two home runs today in the game between the Yanks and St. Louis Browns. The smashes put Ruth two homers ahead of his record on the same date in 1921.

The first home run today was off Zachary in the third. Coming up in the eighth after Coombs had made a circuit drive, Ruth duplicated off Balon who had replaced Zachary.

The first drive scored two runners. There was no one on in the eighth.

MORE THAN 60 AUTOMOBILES IN PARADE LEAVING SANTA ANA ON FRIENDSHIP JUNKET

Residents of Santa Ana, numbering several thousand, thronged the business section this morning to view the departure of the "Santa Ana Friendship tour," an annual chamber of commerce event, staged under the auspices of the junior division of the chamber.

Although slightly delayed in starting, the procession of gaily decorated cars, carrying more than 200 business and professional men of the city, was complete in every detail as it swept along the streets. L. R. Crawford acted as grand marshal of the caravan, assisted by Mason Yould, assistant managing editor of the Santa Ana Register and junior division president, who was "officer of the day."

Sheriff Is Pathfinder.
The procession, composed of more than 60 automobiles, was preceded by State Traffic Officers V. Barnhill and Pat Hurd, of the Orange county squad. Next in line was Sam Jernigan, sheriff of Orange county, officially designated as "pathfinder" of the caravan. A rigid schedule had been worked out by the committee in charge of arrangements. Three counties, Riverside, San Bernardino and Los Angeles, will have been visited when the caravan returns tonight.

"The Santa Ana Friendship tour is

COUNTY ASKED TO TAKE OVER INDIGENT CASES

Recommendations submitted yesterday to the board of supervisors by Dr. Harry E. Zaiser, in charge of the county hospital, and Dr. V. G. Presson, county health officer, if adopted by the supervisors, would relieve the Crippled Children's Relief Association of Orange County of all indigent cases having a claim for county aid, it was explained today by Dr. Presson.

According to the report submitted by the county health officials, the expense involved will run close to $400 a month, the amount now being expended by the relief association on such cases. Of this amount, $150 would go to pay the salary of a trained psychotherapist. The balance would be devoted to purchase of braces, artificial limbs, supplies, as well as to cover contingent expenses incidental to treatments.

The recommendations of the county physicians are in line with a request submitted some time ago by the relief association that the county extend either financial assistance or take over some of the work now handled by the private association.

Continue to Function

It was pointed out that the association would continue to function, taking care of so called "borderland cases," which, although needing help from a humanitarian standpoint, do not constitute a proper charge against the county. The county health officials made their report verbally, having failed to reach an agreement with W. S. Gregg, county aid commissioner.

A separate report was filed yesterday afternoon by Gregg to the effect that county funds cannot be just what the name implies," declared Ridley C. Smith, one of the organizers of the trip. "The trip is not being made to boost Santa Ana or goods manufactured in this city. It is a trip in which the glad hand of fellowship and neighborly feeling will be extended by representative men of the county seat of Orange county to their fellow men in the neighboring counties. It is to be an expression of good will."

In this connection, it was intimated that in the near future a similar trip may be planned to San Diego county.

Official Representation

In the first section of the parade, immediately following the grand marshal's car, were members of the county board of supervisors and a good-sized representation of the city council, headed by Frank L. Purinton.

Feminine grace and beauty were represented by three Santa Ana girls, the Misses Helen Hull, Virginia Bailey and Eleanor Ralston, who had seats in the grand marshal's car.

In each town, a short program will be given. Snappy jazz selections will be offered by Schroeder's orchestra. Eddie Viera and Doris Dysart will present dance numbers at the various stops.

WHY HAIR FALLS OUT

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 35-cent bottle of Dandruft at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub well into the scalp. After a few applications all dandruff disappears and the hair stops coming out.

expended to relieve the private association of expenses for nurse or braces, except in indigent cases.

Leave Little To Do.
Gregg also brings out that if the county assumes payment of nurse, braces and all investigation, there will be little left for the association to do, except to locate and report cases for treatment.

The county aid commissioner recommends expenses for braces and supplies for indigent cripples after proper investigation. He makes no mention of the nurse, the services of whom, the county health officials declare, are essential to the successful treatment of crippled patients.

Balboa Honeymooners
Are Complimented
By Cousins

THE James E. Alexander of Newport boulevard, were dinner hosts last night, complimentary to an interesting pair of honeymooners, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hough of Pasadena, cousins of Mrs. Alexander. The young people are staying at Balboa, having gone to that popular beach resort immediately after their wedding, an event of May 12.

Columbine, nasturtiums and dahlias, all in tones of yellow, adorned the table, their tints being repeated in tall candles and in the nut-cups at each place. An elaborate four-course dinner was served.

In the living-room of the home, the atmosphere was bright with baskets of carnations and dahlias. Whist was the diversion of the evening, varied by music, for Mrs. Hough, the bride, is a talented musician and her piano numbers gave much pleasure as did mimbaphone solos by Stanley Alexander, son of the home.

The young wife is quite well known in this community where she has often visited with relatives who include Mr. and Mrs. W. Horace White of Holt Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. White of Balboa where Mr. White is prominent in yachting and sailing circles.

Mr. and Mrs. Hough will return soon to South Pasadena and establish a home where they will be surrounded by the many lovely gifts received at their wedding. This was a charming function at the Pasadena home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. S. White, with about 150 guests present.

Mr. Hough was a member of the 1924 graduating class from California Institute of Technology and is chemical engineer with the Southern Counties' Gas company in Los Angeles. His bride, Miss Emily White, completed her course at Occidental college the same year.

Attractive prizes were won by Mrs. Rose Beard and Virgil Shidler with consolation gifts awarded Mrs. McMullen and P. T. Isherwood. The evening closed with the serving of light refreshments at the individual tables.

Enjoying the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence and Mr. and Mrs. Creacey were Messrs. and Mesdames P. T. Isherwood, F. A. Wasson, Kellogg, V. C. Shidler, E. E. Frisby, J. H. Gardner, V. L. Series of Parties
Given to Honor
Bride-elect

ALIFORNIA sunshine was exemplified recently in delightful fashion by Miss Iva Dilley when she entertained Miss Flora McClure, whose engagement to Leo Windolph has excited the keen interest of a host of friends.

The home of Miss Dilley at 1224 West Sixth street, was decked with golden cornucopia arranged in attractive bowls. Soon after arrival of the guests, all of whom were N. P. club-members, Miss McClure was given a spool of thread to wind up, and in following the mystic tangle, finally discovered a great yellow box filled to overflowing with handsome gifts of a miscellaneous nature.

After their examination, the guests devoted their time to making a pictorial review of the lives of the engaged pair. Late in the evening, Miss Dilley arranged small tables with yellow covers and served refreshments emphasizing the same color, with dainty yellow nut-cups at each place.

Enjoying the evening with the honoree, Miss McClure, were Mesdames E. Larson, Esther Kubitz, Marie Peterman, Ethel James, Sylvetta Andres, Amy McBride, the Misses Blanche Horton, Ada Larson, Velma McClure, Lillian Arnold, and the hostess, Miss Dilley.

The party was one of a series given for the popular little bride-elect. One of the pleasantest of all was that planned by Miss Virginia Thatcher calling together a group of Miss McClure's sister employees of the Rankin Drygoods company. This also took the form of a show-er of gifts presented in novel manner by small Alleen Rohan who wheeled in a small carriage filled with packages.

At the same pleasant affair, Miss Leila Stuckman, who is leaving soon for Minnesota, was surprised with a handkerchief shower, so the evening was quite Christmas-like in its details.

Miss Thatcher was aided in greeting her guests and in serving refreshments, by her mother and aunt, Mrs. Edith Thatcher and Miss Mabel Whitling.

Those present included the Misses McClure and Stuckman, Lucille Noah, Blanche Horton, Belle McKinsty, Vivian Miller, Mrs. Elmer Thompson, Mrs. Ansel McBroom and the hostess, Miss Thatcher.

Miss McClure who is one of the popular members of the Rankin store force, has announced June 6 as the date of her wedding to Mr. Windolph whose home is in Orange.

Eighteenth Birthday
Is Made Happy Event

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hardy of 518 East Second street, entertained in pleasant fashion last Sunday in celebrating the eighteenth birthday of their mother, Mrs. Catherine Hardy.

A sumptuous chicken dinner was served at 1 o'clock at a table adorned with a low bowl of nasturtiums, which gave a spot of brilliant color to the scene. In the afternoon the honoree and guests were taken for a drive to various of the beauty spots of the county including Orange county park.

Enjoying the celebration were the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Hardy, Mrs. Hardy sr., Mrs. Birdsell and Mrs. Mary Johnson.

Club Meetings

Leisure Hour
The last meeting of the Leisure hour club was held at the home of Mrs. J. J. Henry, 810 West Pine street. Following a short business meeting the afternoon was spent in playing 500. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Henry who was assisted by Mrs. William Bock. One day last week a picnic was held by members of the club at Orange county park. A tempting luncheon was served at noon after which games were held, the winners of which received prizes. The next meeting will be the home of Mrs. Walter Schultz, 514 Eastwood avenue, May 27. Members are urged to be present at this meeting.

M. S. Club
A meeting of the M. S. club was held Friday at the home of Mary Blakeman. After the business meeting, several merry games were played, one of which was "May Flowers."

Miss Thelma Glascock won the first prize, a dainty pencil. The low prize, a stick of gum, went to Miss Josephine Ball. After dancing and merry-making refreshments were served.

Recitals, Past and
To Come, Add to Week's Events

Budrow-Haughton

Tomorrow night at Ebell auditorium, Madame Manuela V. Budrow and Miss Carolyn Haughton will present one of the week's interesting musical events when they introduce their pupils in joint recital. An effort has been made to give as varied a program as possible, and with the array of massed representing among the composers and talent represented among the performers, the evening promises unusual interest to music lovers.

Grieg, MacDowell, Chopin, Moszkowski, Verdi, Leoncavallo and Mendelssohn will be among the composers represented. "My Heart at That Sweet Voice" from "Samson et Dalila" by Saint-Saens will be sung by Mrs. Ruth Madlener; Robert Bradford will sing the Prologue from "The Betrothed" by Leoncavallo; Mrs. Evelyn Getty and Edward Delgado will sing a duet from Verdi's "Il Trovatore" and other varied vocal numbers will include several solos, a women's chorus of almost a score of voices in a song composed by Madame Budrow, and a double male quartette in two numbers.

Miss Veda Mitchell will play the final movement of Mendelssohn's Concerto in G Minor with Miss Haughton as her accompanist. Piano numbers by Miss Haughton's pupils will be quite as varied as the vocal numbers and will include solos, duos and two piano numbers. The program will begin at 8 o'clock and a general invitation is extended to all interested in music.

Gladys Simpson Shafer, head of the expression department of Santa Ana Conservatory of Music, and Ione Tunison Peek of the piano department, will present their pupils in a joint recital tomorrow afternoon at the Conservatory, 806 North Main street.

The program will begin at 3:30 o'clock and will be open to all who are interested.

Holly Lash Visel

Ebell auditorium will be the scene Friday night, of the annual recital in which Holly Lash Visel presents her pupils in expression, and Mrs. Visel has extended a general invitation to the event in addition to sending out attractive cards announcing it.

The program will begin at 8 o'clock and will be divided into two parts, the first, devoted to the work of the Very Small Person and the latter half to the more advanced pupils, although none will be over fourteen years of age. Mrs. Lester Carden will act as accompanist for the musical numbers and Cecil Fross Willis, (Mrs. Thomas Willis sr.) will aid Mrs. Visel in greeting guests.

Mrs. Jay C. Hamill
A group of talented children offered a happy evening Monday at the Unitarian church when Mrs. Jay C. Hamill presented the small pupils of her Nature Music class in recital.

A large crowd taxed the capacity of the church auditorium as friends assembled to hear the little people, not one of whom was over ten years of age, several being barely five. The numbers they gave were all suggestive of lovely out-door life with flowers and fairies, birds, bunnies, frolics and sleighrides in a carnival of melody. Little Helene Hope Hayden, Ellen Neal and Mary Jean Stever were the tiniest tots, each five years old, with Catherine Eklund only six. One of the prettiest numbers was a piano trio played by Mary Jean, Catherine and Ellen. Each one played solos as well and Helen Hope played two solos, adding greatly to the interest of the evening was the introduction of Lloyd Roach as guest artist. To the piano accompaniment of Miss Maurie Hamill, Mr. Roach sang two pleasing numbers, "Invictus" and "Sylvia" by Oley Speaks.

A two-piano number, "Danse Moderne," was played nicely by Beatrice Hinkle and Bernice Larson and another number of special mention was "In Uniform," played by four lads, Hubert Dale Jr., Forest Neal, Claude Owens and Demont Galbraith, seated at two pianos and playing in perfect unison. Several duets were played, among them one in which young Lyle Anderson Jr. took the lead, with his teacher, Mrs. Hamill, taking the part of the little lad to have played, but who was ill.

Other children playing delightfully were June Akin, Roberta McKnight, Richard Daley, Herbert Hughes Hayden, Helen Marshall, Ruth Dunlap, Dorothea Dixon and Georgia Irvin.

St. Joseph School
The children of the music classes of St. Joseph's parochial school gave a very pleasant recital in St. Rita's cottage last week, a number of parents being present to enjoy the following program:

"America," sung by the school, followed by an orchestral number by Donna Cavo at the piano, Lucille Ireland, May Maag, Bernice Borchard, Alice Borchard, Alfred Borchard and Frederick Devenney, violins; Jean Hill, piano solo, "Little Song;" Edith Thompson, "Hunting Song;" Alfred and Alice Borchard, violins; "The Return;" and Edwin Maag, "Catching Butterflies;" Florence Sturbaum, "Woodland Waltz;" Frederick Devenney, "March in F;" and Virginia Vaughn, "Minuet."

George Young, Jr., played "Child's Tea Party;" John Overton Little, "Fairy Song;" Estelle Roelands and Helen Norton, "With a Crowd;" piano duet; Eunice Sherwood, "Chapel in the Woods;" Catherine Overton, "Shepherd's Dream;" Harold Daley, "Swedish Cradle Song;" Mary Louise Dierker Woodruff, May Maag and Lucille Ireland, violins, "Vesper Bells," with Alice Borchard at the piano; Josephine Schwicklerath, "Daisy Polka;" Therese Le Gaye, "Little Fairy Song;" Alice Biner, Lila Polka and

Dinner Party Honors
Group Departing
For Long Trip

EXTENDING a pleasant courtesy to their parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Plavan and Miss Edith Plavan, the young Urban Plavans were hosts last night at their North Main street home.

The festivity, which was charmingly planned, with a pink and yellow color scheme, took the form of a dinner party and was a farewell event as the honored group will leave soon for Victoria, Canada. In Oregon they will be joined by their daughter, and sister, Miss Wilma Plavan and there they will also attend the graduating exercises at Oregon Agricultural college where Miss Wilma is a senior.

Continuing to Victoria they will be joined by another daughter, Mrs. Loren Mead who with her small son Donald, will return from China for an extended visit.

Dick Robbins of Los Angeles will accompany the party as far north as Oregon when he will return to the Southland.

Elizabeth Borchard, Waltz.

The Fifth Nocturne was played by Anna Marie Catherine: "Le Secret" by Elizabeth Grotty; "Chimes of Venice;" Carmen Baxter, "Sous-venir;" violin, Lucille Ireland with Alice Borchard accompanying; Beatrice Paine, "Il Trovatore;" Mary E. Heaney, "Tripping Over the Meadow;" Selma Thompson, "Purple Aster;" May Maag, "Ave Maria;" violin with Alice Borchard at the piano; Mary Elizabeth Gillespie, "Mountain Bell;" Jeannette Klatt, "Dance;" Edward Roth, "Over the Waves;" Bernice Borchard, "Convent Bells;" Donna Cavo, "March;" Alice Borchard, "Dance;" Dorothy Rossiter, "Gertrude's Dream;" Evelyn Case, "The Maiden's Prayer;" Alice Borchard, "Angel's Dream;" and Alice Borchard, "Flower Song" on the violin.

Business Women Will Have Dinner Party
At Southern Seas

SOUTHERN SEAS club at Balboa will be Mecca for Business and Professional Women next Tuesday night, May 25, when the club members will assemble at that pleasant spot for 6:30 o'clock dinner.

The May social committee, appointed by Miss Louise Kaiser, club president, and composed of Miss Lorraine French, chairman, Miss Peggy King, Miss Helen Walker and Ruth Taylor Scudder, held a meeting last night at the latter's millinery store on Main street, where final arrangements for the outing were completed.

Informality will reign throughout the evening, and swimming will be one of the chief diversions. Those who wish to swim are instructed to take suits and towels with them. The various beach diversions will offer dancing in the pavilion, strolls along the pier and board walk, and moonlight rides on the bay. It has been suggested that many will enjoy the trip over the bay and into the ocean that is available to beach visitors.

All reservations must be made by Saturday and tickets may be procured from any member of the committee and will be on sale at Mrs. Scudder's store, 308 North Main street. Transportation will be arranged for all and those uncertain as to means of reaching the clubhouse, are requested to call one of the committee members or the president, Miss Kaiser in the Dr. Frank H. Paterson office in the Moore building. Miss French may be reached by telephoning her at 957 J, the Nellie Vance Wilson home, while Miss King may be reached after office hours at 387 W, the Mrs. William H. Smart home on North Main street.

Hunt by Airplane In North Russia

MOSCOW, May 19.—The airplane is helping the hunter to make life miserable for the walrus and the seal in Russia's polar waters. The airplane "Prombank," scouting in co-operation with hunting parties in the White sea, was a big factor in enabling the hunters to obtain a record bag of more than 10,000 of these sea beasts.

The peasants in these isolated arctic regions were at first inclined to regard the airplane as an instrument of the devil and crossed themselves whenever they saw it. Their attitude became more friendly, however, when the airplane brought mail from the wives to the hunters and changed to positive enthusiasm when it transported a mid-wife to assist the expectant mothers of the community.

Japanese Stars Get Small Wages

TOKIO, May 19.—A light upon the salaries paid moving picture actors in Japan has been thrown by the young ladies, who have been appearing in the minor roles of the Toa Motion Picture production, who have walked out on strike. These young women claim that they have been working for a year with the company without salary, on condition that they be taught the way in which stars are made. Now that they are experienced artists, the company offers them 10 yen a month (around $4.50) to stay on, so they have struck.

Radio Is Heard in Bottom of Shaft

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., May 19.—A few thousand feet of earth offers no hindrance to reception of a radio program, it was found in an experiment carried out in the American Eagle mine here.

P. L. Smith and A. S. Carper, connected with the mine property, took a radio set to the twenty-first level of the mine, which is 2100 feet below the surface.

A noon-day pipe organ concert broadcast by station KOA, Denver, was heard with the same clarity as outside the shaft.

Commits Suicide By Eating Tacks

BUDAPEST, May 19.—A suicide by eating tacks was consummated recently in the Slovakian village of Bursian, according to reports received here.

Ernest Zadjl, after failing to win the affections of a village girl, bought a box of tacks.

Lying in bed, Zadjl swallowed the whole box one at a time. Within a few moments he began to call for help.

A physician, who was called, could do nothing to save the young man. In a post mortem examination, the coroner found 247 tacks in Zadjl's stomach.

German Society in Japan Is Planned

TOKIO, May 19.—Formation of a Japanese-German society, proposed by Dr. William Solf, German ambassador, has received hearty endorsement of Baron Shidehara, foreign minister, and many Japanese scholars. The first task of the organization will be to effect an exchange of professors between Japanese and German universities. German exchange medical lecturers probably will be the first of the Teuton savants to come to Japan.

ANNUAL DITCH DAY OBSERVED BY COLLEGIANS

Students of the Santa Ana Junior college threw aside their school books today and celebrated their annual "ditch day" at Laguna Beach.

Going to the beach 200 strong, the students left here this morning for a day of spirited games and water sports. Miss Elaine Smith, college social chairman, was in charge of the events of the day.

An attempt had been made to keep the plans from the faculty, but, as is usually the case, some of the faculty members discovered the plot.

The students, as a ruse, had arranged for class meetings, student body assembly and other activities today and this enabled them to make the surprise more complete.

Some of the faculty members, on learning of the "ditch day," joined the students for the day's celebration.

THAT SCHOOL-DAY FRIENDSHIP—LET THE JEWELER HELP YOU PERPETUATE IT

THIS month more than a hundred thousand boys and girls will graduate from the colleges and universities of America.

For four years, these boys and girls have lived in a world of their own, forming friendships as close and true as life can develop.

To these friendships, Commencement Day often means the "parting of the ways" . . . the interruption of sympathetic ties which later years may never supplant.

But need the parting mean the end of these friendships? Not if pleasant memories are kept alive with tokens that serve as lasting reminders of delightful Alma Mater days.

Your jeweler is headquarters for such enduring reminders—for "Gifts That Last" like the sentiment they commemorate.

They need not be expensive gifts. But they should be durable and serviceable, like friendship itself.

Whatever you would say to him or her, at the parting of treasured school-day comradeships, should be said for a lifetime.

So say it from the jeweler's stock with "Gifts That Last."

BODY FOUND IN SEA NOT THAT OF SANTA ANA

In a final effort to learn the whereabouts of Ole Ohr, 60, Santa Ana carpenter, who has been mysteriously missing from his home, 120 South Sycamore street, since May 9, Sheriff Sam Jernigan today issued a circular letter to various police departments in the Southland.

Yesterday, friends of Ohr viewed the body of a man found floating in the ocean off the coast of San Juan Capistrano several days ago, but declared that it was not that of Ohr. The body was in the San Pedro police morgue, where it awaits identification.

Ohr's machine was found near Serra, on the beach, a week ago, on the day of his disappearance. It apparently had been abandoned there. Several boys, fishing near the place, declared that a man, whose description is similar to that of Ohr, asked them for clams. The boys said that he ate the clams and apparently was suffering great mental strain at the time.

Ohr was known to have worried over financial matters recently and to have been in poor health at the time he disappeared. A search of the beach for several days following his disappearance failed to show any trace of his body however.

The man is described as being five feet, six inches in height and weighs approximately 135 pounds. When he left home here, he was wearing a gray suit, gray cap and black shoes.

SHARP FIGHTS MARK OREGON STATE PRIMARY

(By United Press)

PORTLAND, Ore., May 19.—A heated battle in the Democratic camp and a combat of personalities in the Republican field are the principal features of senatorial campaigns for nomination in the Oregon primary election Friday.

Senator Robert N. Stanfield, staunch administration supporter, is under fire from all dry organizations, in addition to being opposed by seven Republicans. At least one of his opponents, Frederick Stelwer, Pendleton attorney and Anti-Saloon league favorite, is conceded to have an even break, and, in the opinion of many, will defeat him.

Stir in Democratic Camp
For a state overwhelmingly Republican, there has been plenty of excitement in the Democratic senatorial fight between Bert E. Haney, former shipping board commissioner and ship subsidy advocate, and Elton Watkins, fiery ex-congressman and declared foe of a subsidized merchant marine.

Although the race will be close, Democratic political observers give Haney a slight advantage. In the meantime, in a quiet way, Democratic leaders are lending encouragement to Stanfield, believing that the Democratic nominee will win in the general election next fall should the junior senator be the Republican choice.

Col. Alfred E. Clark, a serious menace to the hopes of Stanfield and Stelwer in the Republican contest, has developed surprising strength in the past few weeks. Clark, a former Bull Moose, has accused Stelwer of being in league with a group trying to destroy the direct primary, and he is winning considerable progressive Republican support.

Fly in Ointment
A fly in the G. O. P. ointment is A. R. Shumway, farmer and advocate of sweeping farm relief legislation. He is the puzzle of the campaign, as his political strength, and the extent to which farmers will support him, is uncertain. His chances for election are considered hopeless.

L. B. Sandblast, Republican, has the distinction of being the lone anti-prohibition candidate. He is not considered in political calculations, however, as the main point seems to be not if a candidate is wet or dry, but the extent and degree of his dryness.

Mrs. Rose E. Barrett, Seaside; James J. Croesley, Portland, and Clarence F. Evey, Mountaineer, also are Republican candidates, but are not serious contenders.

Police News

An automobile, registered to John Sterrett, of Claremont, was abandoned near Fourteenth and North Main streets last night by two boys, police were told. The machine was taken to the police station, where it is being held for the owner.

Ed McClellan, chief criminal deputy sheriff, left early today for Los Angeles, where he will be a witness before the federal grand jury in the case of the United States against Roberto Roche, arrested here several weeks ago, in connection with the raising of $1 bills to $10 bills. McClellan was working with secret service agents when Roche was arrested.

Famous Streets in Los Angeles Carry Flood of Traffic

Los Angeles has more concrete streets than any other city in the country—a total of over 220 miles.

All of these streets are carrying a steadily increasing volume of traffic, and are doing so with very little maintenance.

Some of them are famous thoroughfares representing the most advanced type of paving construction.

They include Vine Street, "The Highway of the Movie Stars," Franklin Avenue, one of Hollywood's fine residential streets; Cahuenga Avenue, the main artery leading into Los Angeles from the San Fernando Valley; and Hill Street from Washington to Santa Barbara Avenue.

Los Angeles is building more concrete streets every year. The latest of these is Pico Boulevard. This, when completed, will be from 34 to 66 feet wide throughout its entire length of seven miles.

It will pay other cities and towns to make a careful study of Los Angeles' advanced practice in permanent street paving.

Property owners and local authorities are invited to write to this office for the facts. Also ask for your copy of our free booklet on "Concrete Streets."

U. S. TO SPEND 140 MILLIONS FOR FARMERS

WASHINGTON, May 19 — The government will spend nearly $140,000,000 during the next fiscal year, beginning July 1, in an effort to relieve the depression of the agricultural industry and to place farmers on a plane with other business.

Congress, apparently, with at least one eye on election year, provided the agriculture department with more than $1,000,000 above the appropriation for this year and distribution of funds is about to begin.

Secretary Jardine announced today that livestock industries would receive $1,100,000 in federal aid for tubercular eradication work among cattle. About $300,000 will be spent in printing and distributing books on diseases of horses and cattle.

Good roads, a necessity to farmers—will get $80,000,000 from the government next year.

So farmers can obtain livestock information and market news, $37,402 will be spent to expand department news service from Buffalo, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, Cleveland, Indianapolis and St. Joseph. Jardine said other large expenditures next year will include $10,000 for a bee culture station in Wyoming; $20,000 for a new forestry experiment station in California, and $10,000 for inspection service of seeds, fruits and nursery plants for export.

Congress also provided increased appropriations for preventing the spread of the corn borer, for strengthening port inspection service and for a number of experiments to aid farmers in selecting crops and eliminating pests and diseases.

Money for study of every possible type of agriculture disease will be available next year and Jardine believes that through co-operation in this line the department will be able to save farmers millions of dollars.

RELIGIOUS DRAMA TO BE PRESENTED

A religious drama, "The Star of Bethlehem," is to be given Thursday night in the First Methodist church. The play is being presented by W. H. Wright and his company, which is specializing in the production of religious drama.

Wright was on the stage for many years, but is now giving his life to the production of religious plays for churches. His company has presented plays of this character in the larger churches up and down the Pacific coast for the last four years and has met with great success.

"The Star of Bethlehem" will be given in prologue and four other scenes. The characters, as they appear, will be the Wise Man and the Shepherd's Wife; Mary, the young mother; the old Inn Keeper; Judas and his sister, Judith; Barabbas, the Barbarian, and Egyptian girl.

The play will be sponsored here by a group of young folk and will be part of their religious educational program. No tickets will be sold, but an offering will be taken to defray the expense. The public is invited to attend.

Gold Rush Is On In Alaskan Field

WRANGEL, Alaska, May 19.—The lure of gold again is bringing stampedees to this northern country.

Although returns last season from the Cassiar fields would not seem to warrant much excitement, many mining outfits are invading the Dease river district, seeking the yellow metal.

Favored by a mild winter, prospectors and miners began pushing into the interior early in the season. But the advance was very business-like, not a bit resembling the earlier sordid days.

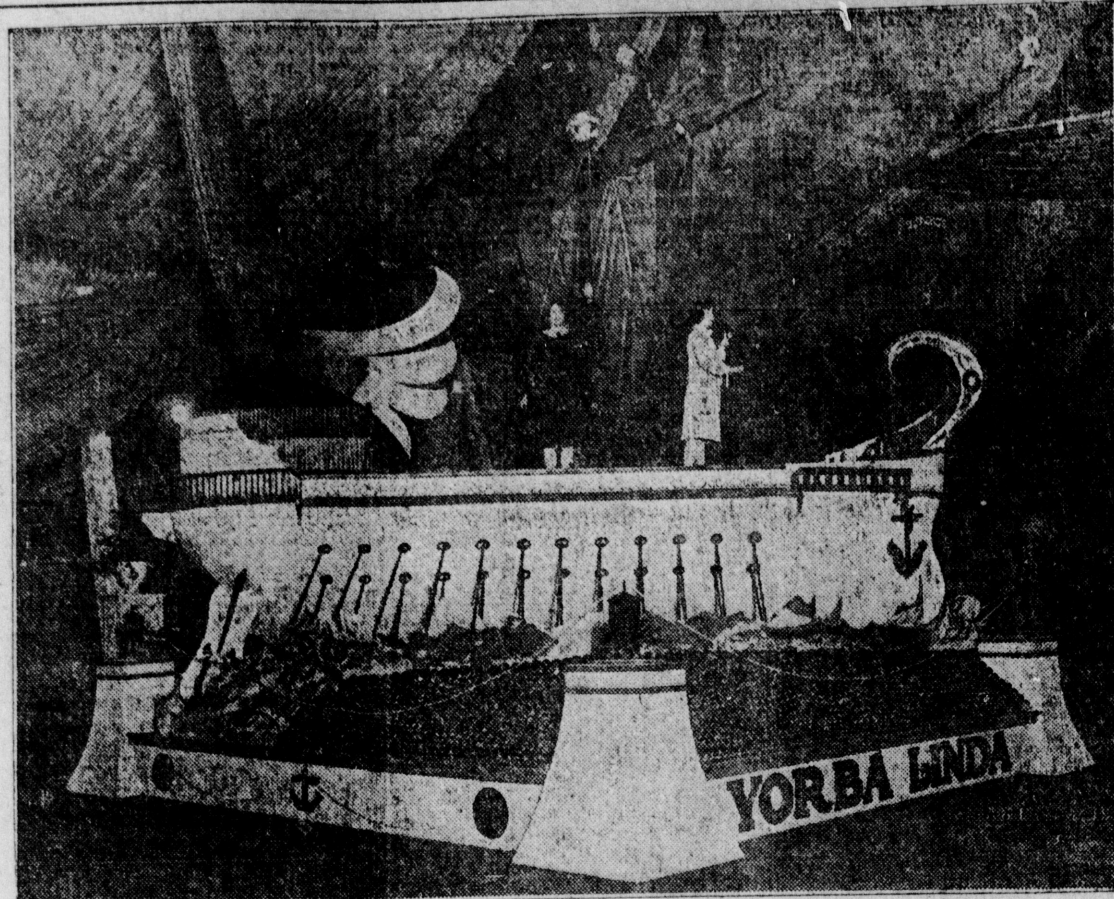

Snow-packs and ice have disappeared, to further detract from story-book conception of a northern gold rush. Cassiar is not another Klondike. Word from Telegraph creek, B. C., up the Stikine river, told how the river was free of ice early and of light snowfall in the mountains.

LIBRARY TAX RATE INCREASE IS REQUESTED

Stressing the value of public libraries and their relation to public welfare, two requests for increased support of the county library system were before the county supervisors today.

Both requests came from Laguna Beach and were filed with the board late yesterday. Both suggest an increase in the present tax levy of two cents for each $100 assessed valuation and ask that it be doubled, to a levy of four cents.

The Laguna Beach Art association and the members of the Laguna Beach library board issued the two communications to the county supervisors. A copy of a resolution, recently adopted by the art association, was forwarded to the board, signed by Mary L. Riker, secretary. Members of the library board, signing their communication, were Mrs. Helen F. Elliott, acting chairman; Mrs. Maud E. Marshall, treasurer and secretary; Catherine A. Brooks, Ida E. Bowen, G. E. Thompson and Paul A. Numan.

The attitude the supervisors might take toward the request for a doubled tax levy was a matter of speculation today, when it was recalled that, when the county library was established several years ago, there was said to be a tacit understanding that a limit of two cents should be placed on the library tax rate.

LEON WHITSELL
TELLS OF WORK
PERFORMED BY RAILROAD BODYMany Trials and Tribulations of Commission in
Discharge of Duty ToldHARBOR PROJECT
DISCUSSION HELDMany Questions in Regard To Proposition Answered
by Various Speakers

Speaking about the trials and tribulations of the railroad commission in carrying out the powers, duties, functions and limitations assigned it, Leon Whitsell, railroad commissioner, addressed the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce meeting last night in the Costa Mesa Women's clubhouse.

Interesting facts about the commission, as outlined by Whitsell, showed the number of public utilities in the state under the control of the commission to be 2000, exclusive of publicly owned possessions, which do not come under the jurisdiction of the commission.

Because of the criticism the commission always has been subject to when the rates of a public utility were raised, Whitsell cited many instances when rates had been reduced without any notice being given by the public that it approved or even noticed. Because of the fact that out of 16,000 decisions rendered by the commission since 1912, only 11 have been reversed, the California commission is ranked with the four greatest public utilities governing bodies in the nation, said Whitsell. The two principals on which the commission is founded, according to Whitsell, are to allow the utility a reasonable profit and to make the service of the company of reasonable worth to the consumer.

Proposition Outlined.
Introductory to a round table discussion on the harbor, following Whitsell's address, George T. Peabody, president of the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce, outlined the proposition of the tidelands property in the harbor district by means of a large chart, colored to show districts now owned by the county and other property under the county's control.

The county owns in the upper bay district 392 acres in fee and has the right of navigation through 223 acres more. Other properties controlled are owned along the proposed inner channel bring the total frontage on the channel to approximately six miles, Peabody declared.

Questions asked by members and answered by Peabody, concerning the harbor, developed several pertinent facts, as follows:

An average depth of 25 feet at low water will be dredged, the dredged material to be placed along the beach to make the beach wider; the entrance channel will be 300 feet

LEGALITY OF COUNTY PAYING
EXPENSES OF STATE TRAFFIC
SQUAD HERE IS QUESTIONED

How the state government, maintained by its own sources of taxation, not only is quite willing that the county government should foot some of its bills, but furthermore depends upon such support, came to light yesterday at the supervisors' meeting, when a requisition for office furniture, to be installed in the office here of the state motor vehicle department, was discussed.

The requisition was submitted by Walter P. Greer, inspector of the state motor police, who explained the need. Some doubt as to the legality of charging the county with an expense that properly should be borne by the state was expressed by County Auditor William C. Jerome. He pointed out that it would be somewhat inconsistent for the county to keep up an office over which it had no control. A similar opinion was expressed by T. B. Talbert, chairman of the board of supervisors.

Depend On Counties

Inquiries revealed that while the state motor vehicle department maintains its own office in Sacramento, it depends upon the county governments to furnish and equip offices located at county seats. According to Greer, the only supplies furnished the offices from Sacramento are application blanks and postage stamps.

County Auditor Jerome admitted, however, that inasmuch as the state officers are doing patrol duty in the county, assisting the county authorities in the handling of traffic and the enforcement of traffic laws, there might be an equitable consideration under which the county would take care of office expenses.

He also called attention to the fact that there is ample provision in the law whereby the state motor vehicle department may use its funds for equipping its county offices and therefore should not be dependent upon the county.

Not Good Business

In his opinion, a system where a portion of the overhead was paid from one source and another from a different disbursing center was not good business unless there was centralized control to insure accountability and correct estimates of cost and expenditures.

Before acting upon the requisition, it was decided to communicate with the chief of the state motor vehicle department, the district attorney and disbursing officers in other counties.

$1 DAMAGES GIVEN
WOMAN PLAINTIFF

The jury that heard Mrs. Margaret J. Reid's complaint for $7500 damages against Mrs. T. R. O'Connell, of Santa Ana, late yesterday returned a verdict in Superior Judge E. J. Marks' court, awarding Mrs. Reid $1 damages.

Mrs. Reid had complained of asserted forced eviction from a portion of the store, which she had leased from Mrs. O'Connell, who conducted a women's shop in her portion.

Attorney Fred Forgy appeared for Mrs. Reid in the case, W. F. Menton and S. B. Kaufman representing Mrs. O'Connell.

Plumbing Work
Disturbed

Thieves stole a large quantity of plumbing fixtures from a house owned by A. J. Mansur, 1312 North Baker street, yesterday, according to a report filed with the police. The fixtures were the property of H. O. Ehlen, plumbing contractor, of Orange, it was said.

The house, now under construction, was not locked. Police are of the opinion that a small truck was used to carry away the fittings. Officer Sid Smithwick investigated.

BOYS PRESENT
PROGRAM FOR ROTARY MEET

Most of the program at yesterday's Rotary meeting was put on by boys, two of whom were under 12 years of age. It was Boys Work day at Rotary, which organization the world around is deeply interested in the development of boys along right lines.

Roland E. Dye, county Boy Scout executive, was chairman of the meeting.

The first demonstration arranged was a series of tumbling stunts by two Y.M.C.A. boys, Harold Bowe and Dean Francis. These youngsters are members of the smaller boys' class at the Y. Each boy not only did some tumbling but showed marvelous ability in walking on his hands.

A number of Boy Scouts, led by Frank Mansur, put on realistic demonstrations of first aid. First came a demonstration of resuscitation of a person pulled out of the water. Dye said that Boy Scouts, who had learned this work actually had saved three lives in this county. Bandaging and the stopping of a flow of blood from a severed artery also were demonstrated.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Forsyth, who were here yesterday under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A., entertained with songs and stories.

Y. CHORUS TO GIVE PROGRAM
OF OLD SONGSPopular Vocal Selections
Of 50 to 100 Years Ago
To Be Concert Feature

Eighteen men are on the list of singers who will be heard in the concert of old-time songs at Y. M. C. A. on May 27, when the Men's chorus of the Y. M. C. A. appears in its most ambitious offering.

The chorus was made popular as a result of the minstrel show presented in February and has sung on a number of occasions since that time.

The chorus numbers will feature songs of long ago. Practically every number will be selected from those of 50 to 100 years ago. Songs like "Nelly Bly" and "Cousin Jedediah," forgotten years ago, have been resurrected, to appear along with more familiar favorites, such as "When You and I Were Young," "Maggie" and other old songs of sentiment.

Because of the approach of Memorial day, a special feature of the program has been arranged to introduce a number of old patriotic songs. "Dixie," "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," "Tenting Tonight" and the "Vacant Chair" will be featured in this part of the program.

In all there are to be 13 musical numbers presented, including several solo numbers. An additional attraction will be a motion picture, which will depict many of the activities of the Y. M. C. A. here and introduce a number of well known Santa Ana persons. About 200 men and boys are shown in these movies.

According to Secretary R. C. Smedley, who directs the chorus, excellent music is being produced at rehearsals and the entertainment will be of a quality to please the most discriminating. The program will be offered free of charge and the public is invited.

WOMAN IS PAROLED
FROM COUNTY JAIL

Mrs. C. W. Morris, fined $300 on a liquor charge in Judge J. F. Talbot's court late last week and committed to the county jail when she was unable to pay, yesterday was paroled on condition that she return, with her two children, to her husband, who resides in San Diego.

The woman was arrested here for possession of liquor in her home on Orange avenue.

The parole was granted, City Marshal Claude Rogers said, so that she may take care of the children and because of poor health, but with the understanding that she return to San Diego with her husband.

Request for the parole was made by the husband, Chief Rogers said.

ERADICATION OF WORM PEST TO BE DISCUSSED

Walnut growers of Orange county are uniting in an effort to minimize the loss due to codling moth infestation.

A general mass meeting of Orange county growers at the Mabury ranch next Saturday at 10 a. m., will open the 1926 control campaign. The Mabury ranch is located at the corner of Justin avenue and Fruit street, between Santa Ana and Tustin. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the farm bureau, co-operating with the horticultural commissioner and the agricultural extension service.

The walnut growers department of the farm bureau has taken steps, during recent seasons, in the direction of educational activities, looking toward the improvement of the quality of walnuts.

Prof. H. J. Quayle, entomologist of the citrus experiment station, Riverside, who has spent considerable time in testing spray and dust materials for worm control during the last few years, will be one of the principal speakers. Professor Quayle will outline the results of pest control methods in Orange county.

The horticultural commissioner will explain the plan of pest control to be carried out this season, following the recommendations of the pest control committee, appointed at a mass meeting of growers last fall.

Arrangements have been completed for the application of spray material as well as dusting material with commercial rigs.

A large attendance of growers from all sections of the county is expected.

125 Children Participate in

The program will be given on the lawn on the north side of the school building and comfortable seats have been provided. Beautiful palm trees will offer shelter from the sun, according to Miss Blessner.

Kathleen Fry was chosen by her classmates as May Queen and she carries the honor with grace and dignity. Fairies and butterflies will participate in mounting the maypole, one of the pretty features of the program.

Pure water, sleep and fresh air are some of the elements characterized in the health pageant.

The program also includes a display of articles made at home by children of the school.

Boys and girls will demonstrate healthful exercises practiced in the school.

SPEEDING HELD TO BLAME FOR NINE DEATHS IN
ORANGE COUNTYFast Driving Dangers Are Pointed Out by Justice
Of Peace in Club TalkACCIDENT DETAILS
TOLD BY MORRISONChild Fatalities Recited As Argument for Establishment of Playground

Speeding was directly responsible for nine fatalities in Orange county in 1925, the result of accidents occurring within 35 miles an hour speed zones, according to declarations made yesterday by Kenneth Morrison, justice of the peace of Santa Ana township, in an address at the meeting of the Santa Ana Exchange club.

The speaker pointed out that speeding is dangerous even on what may be termed straightaways, the danger being in the fact that cars, traveling at such speed, usually are wobbly, the driver being unable to maintain a car in a straight path. He told of a number of accidents on the open highways of the county and gave intimate details of conditions that resulted in the mishaps.

"We are endeavoring to stop speeding on the open highways, for we feel that if we stop this we will have better control over speeding on city streets," the justice said, in pointing out that motorists would not be tempted to speed on city thoroughfares if their speeding privileges were curbed on county and state roads.

36 Killed in 1925
Bringing out the information that 36 persons were killed in automobile accidents in Orange county in 1925, Morrison said that eight of the fatalities were children, who were struck while playing in the streets.

"This is a splendid argument for parks and playgrounds in Santa Ana," he commented, in indicating that if there were proper playgrounds, children would not play in the streets as much as they do.

Morrison said that in the last six months he had had at least 25 motorists before him on charges of driving while intoxicated.

"A man who has been drinking may stand up and talk without showing influence of liquor, but he can not drive a car, because the motion of a machine has a tendency to rile up his system, with the result that he can not drive in a straight course, the speaker said, and recited instances of accidents caused by men who were under the influence of liquor.

Further indicating the irresponsibility of drunken men, he told of the instance recently of two men got into a machine and later were found in a walnut orchard. The driver and his companion, Morrison said, did not know how their car got into the grove.

He declared that many drivers on the highways today do not know what "cutting in" is, many holding the belief that violation of the law in this respect occurs only when a driver cuts a short in front of a car he has just passed. The justice pointed out that the law specifically provides that a car passing another on the highway should have after completing the act of passing, a clearance of at least 300 feet between it and a machine approaching from the opposite direction.

He pointed out the dangers of 200,000 Pounds of Candy

Roehm-Sylvester Co., well known jobbers of Santa Ana for 14 years, entered the manufacturing field a little over a year ago and their first year's success is a story of real achievement.

One would think that enough candy was being made, but when Roehm-Sylvester turns out a product that sells 102,000 pounds the first year without special sales efforts, it must be good, and must please many people.

Laguna Chocolates are "going over big" this year; there will probably be 200,000 lbs. sold, and more if this Fall is as good as people think it will be.

The peak of the season at Roehm-Sylvester is from September to March, when 55 to 40 people are employed. The exact payroll for 1925 was $27,891.35, which will be greatly exceeded this year.

This concern's jobbing business in soda fountain supplies, candies and cigars, runs into hundreds of thousands of dollars annually, the bulk of which forms an appreciable part of the commerce of Orange County.

Pitner & Weber Make 3,000
to 5,000 Cigars Daily

Pitner & Weber manufactured cigars in Los Angeles for 20 years. Then they decided to cast their lot with Santa Ana—two years ago. Today, and right now the season is quite slack, they are making 3,000 to 5,000 cigars per day. That figure will be materially increased this Fall.

Pitner & Weber brought 12 expert cigar-makers to Santa Ana. They are paid well for this specialized work and their money is spent in Santa Ana.

The cigars which are best known at present are their Colonel, the Calett Per-fecto, and the Calnet. Many fine cigars made at this factory are sold in Santa Ana under the special brand of local stores.

Pitner & Weber import many fine tobaccos. All their fillers and wrappers are imported. Their cigars are all honestly made, with full value and quality in each one.

A man will find any grade to suit his taste in their cigars—why not ask for them and support local industry?

Stage and Screen

Dolores Costello now playing in "The Bride of the Storm," current attraction at the West Coast-Walker.

YOST THEATER

There is a lot of good sound judgment in Frank Lloyd's "Her Husband's Secret," the picture now being shown at the Yost theater.

Adapted to the screen from May Edginton's Saturday Evening Post story, "Judgment," the play relates a realistic and sincere drama.

It is one of the few photoplays in recent months which seems so wholesome and true to life that the reviewer finds himself actually living with the characters flocking before him, and oftentimes feels like he has taken liberties in trespassing on his neighbor's property.

There is no spectacle, no exaggeration and no pretense about "Her Husband's Secret." It lives. It goes from drama as delicate as a piece of lace, to one of the most astounding climaxes seen on the silver sheet, and never do you lose interest or sympathy with the plot or the characters.

Antonio Moreno is superb as Owen Elliot; Patsy Ruth Miller proves a delightful choice for his sweetheart, the daughter of the conservative old banker, Rose Brewster, played by David Torrence. Ruth Clifford is charming and impressive as both the young Mrs. Kent and the elderly Mrs. Pearce, and Walter McGrail is good as the "heavy."

WEST END THEATER

Not since her appearance in "Feet of Clay," which brought her into prominence, has Vera Reynolds had such a wide variety of roles since she became a Cecil B. DeMille player.

In "Without Mercy" she was compelled to dive from a large ship and swim ashore at night. In "The Road to Yesterday" she encountered many new phases of motion picture activity which were new to her.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Much of the action of J. Stuart Blackton's production, "Bride of the Storm," now showing at the West Coast-Walker theater takes place in and around a lighthouse which was built particularly for this picture on the California coast near Laguna Beach.

This lighthouse was built on the end of a jutting point of land tipped with great rocks, which are almost engulfed at high tide by the great breakers on even the calmest day. It follows, then, that the lighthouse had to be very solidly built and founded. It was situated on a great isolated rock and to it ran a narrow wooden gangway from steps which led up the low cliffs of the mainland.

Great difficulty was experienced in taking the scenes, which are all most engulfed at high tide, which occurred at 10 o'clock at night. The company could not work in the morning because the fog did not rise sufficiently until two or three o'clock in the afternoon. At night they had to have artificial light. This was a very difficult problem because there were few surrounding vantage points on which lights could be placed. One huge platform erected for this purpose disappeared entirely during the change in tides, so that only a few broken timbers remained as forlorn witnesses to the irresistible force of the waves. A boat, which had been moored to the cliff was dashed to pieces, and at low tide the remnants were found and scattered and buried in the sand of the beach.

Airplanes to Be Taken From Fire Patrols

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Use of army airplanes in forest fire patrol work will be discontinued after this summer because the diminishing supply of planes is needed for army training, secretary of War Davis notified the agricultural department. Davis suggested that commercial aircraft probably will be available for the purpose and that a competent army officer can assist in organizing a new fire patrol service.

RATHER JUST SIT AROUND?

A Feeling Many Have Which Is Often Mistaken for Laziness When Really It Is Due to Constipation.

Redfield, Ark.—"Black-Draught is certainly a mighty good medicine to have," says Mr. J. A. Tuck, of this place. "We use it about all the time. I take it for indigestion and headache."

"If I get constipated and bilious, I feel like sitting around instead of working. I haven't any ambition to get up and get busy but after I take a few doses of Black-Draught, and it acts, I feel all right. Black-Draught hasn't failed me yet."

"My daughter wasn't well. Had gas formations that seemed to smother her. She would have trouble in getting her breath. She was sallow and peaked. Now she takes Black-Draught and it seems to help her. She takes it after meals. This seems to dispel the gas, and she is much better than she was. Her skin cleared up considerably."

"We wouldn't be without Black-Draught. It is a good medicine. Thousands of others would not want to be without Black-Draught, since they have learned how valuable its use is, in cases of constipation and ill due to that very common trouble. Black-Draught is easily obtainable from neighborhood druggists, in 25c packages. Give it a good trial."

POET OF EVANSTON FINDS HAVEN IN ANCIENT FOREST

Lew Saret as he looks in the college town of Evanston, Ill. Right, Lew Saret as he looks in the north woods.

Professor at Northwestern Quits City for Life in North Woods

CHICAGO, May 19.—"A civilization that makes a man unable to live with himself and his family, unable to find contentment in simple, wholesome home life close to the soil, that makes a man dependent on an artificial, hectic jazz life outside his home—a civilization like that is tragically defective somewhere."

That short statement sums up the creed of Lew Saret, poet, scholar and woodsman. It is the creed that made his life as professor at Northwestern university seem barren, cramped and unreal to him, so that last winter he abruptly gave it up and went to look for a wilderness haven.

In Virgin Forests

He has found what he was looking for. This summer he is going to build a home for himself, his wife and their son in the little town of Laona, up in the virgin forests of Forest county, Wisconsin. There they will live and try to regain their vigor by getting close to the earth.

Behind him Saret will leave the cultivated, secure life of Evanston, university town on the edge of Chicago. The only connecting link will be his professorship in the school of speech. Three months each year he will return to Evanston to teach. The rest of the time will find him in the north woods, where the wind rustles the pine branches and the sun glints off the copper surface of winding rivers.

Not for Everyone

When Saret announced his intention of moving to the woods, a Chicago business man who knew him told him:

"It may be all right for you, Saret, but the average man would die if he had to do that. He needs many contacts—luncheon clubs, cabarets, lodges and social events. The average man hasn't the ability to live by and within himself; he doesn't want to, and he couldn't if he did want to. He has grown dependent on artificial life outside his home."

"And that," replied Saret, "proves my point. It is a worse indictment of modern civilization than I have ever voiced."

"What are we here for? To make money, so we can buy things that will make us want still more money? To spend our days working and our nights dancing? To live in apartments, one home piled on top of another? Perhaps."

There's Fishing, Too
"But I think the enduring things are the simpler things; wholesome home life, the enjoyment of our families, playing and wrestling with out youngsters, sitting by open fires with good books and a plate of apples nearby, rambling in October woods, casting trout flies over pools."

"I think it is more important that a man grow within himself than that he have many lodge pins to wear on his coat. And to grow inside, you have to be alone much of the time."

"Of course, I don't mean that every family should move into the country. But I do think that this would be a more beautiful, healthy and more Christian world if every one of us went into the woods some part of every year. I think every man ought to live in closer touch with nature, ought to commune somehow and sometime with the spirit that makes itself manifest there in bird and tree and waterfall.

What Town Gives

"These things are so much more accessible if you live in a small town. You can live on the edge of a village, in natural surroundings. You can live in a house—and that's wonderful, after a period of apartment dwelling. You can go hunting, and go fishing an hour or two in the evening after work; you can go camping, or have a cottage for week ends at some lake."

"All you have to do is stay in tune with the song of the flicker, the voice of the wind, the call of the fields that lie close to the little towns. And yet so many of us scamper to the city to run with the pack!"

In the opinion of Morrison, temporary revocation of licenses would not be effective in reducing traffic violations.

"If I were to revoke a license, no one would know it but the arresting officer, the motor vehicle division and myself," he said. "The man, whose license is revoked, may continue to drive a car and no one would know that he was doing so without proper authority—unless he should happen to be picked up for another violation, when investigation of records in the office of the motor vehicle division would reveal the fact."

Dr. Cassius Paul was program chairman at the meeting. In addition to the address, the program included a vocal number by Miss Patsy Swales, who sang "My Gift for You" (Cadmus) to her own accompaniment, and a demonstration of the Charleston, by Lorain Wheeler and Beatrice Wolf. Delicious Combination Easy to Make Mixed Pineapple and Strawberry Jam

If you want to add a delightful "surprise" to your store of jams and jellies this year—a really delicious treat—make some mixed strawberry and pineapple jam by this simple, easy recipe.

No finer blend of flavors can be imagined than that of the deliciously luscious strawberry with the refreshing tartness of ripe, juicy pineapple. Many women like this recipe, too, for its economy, since the pineapple makes your strawberries go so much further.

Crush to a fine pulp about 1 quart ripe berries. Put pineapple through food chopper, or chop very fine. (Canned crushed pineapple may be used.) Measure 2 level cups of each fruit into large kettle. Add 7 level cups (8 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard for 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir in 1/4 cup Certo. Stir, pour quickly and cover hot jam at once with hot melted paraffin.

With such delicately flavored fruits as pineapple and strawberries the advantages of the Certo method are especially noticeable. For not only do these difficult fruits jelly perfectly every time, but the short boil, possibly only with Certo, prevents the loss of fresh flavor and color which occurs during long boiling.

A book of simple, tested recipes comes with each bottle of Certo. Your grocer carries Certo, or you can send 50c (for postage) and get a trial half-size bottle which will make from 6 to 10 glasses of jam or jelly, depending upon the recipe used. Address Douglas-Pectin Corporation, 1550 Granite Building, Rochester, N. Y.—Adv.

U. S. PREPARES TO PAY WAGES DUE 40 YEARS

BY C. B. DODDS
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Fifty-five former employees of the Mare Island Navy yard or their heirs will benefit from a bill just passed by the senate, paying them for overtime work performed in the late '70s of the last century. The Mare Island claimants were in a bill with 2000 others representing employees from all the navy yards in the country, the claims varying from a few dollars to $700.

Uncle Sam is slow in paying his debts, but as a rule gets around to its eventually. On March 21, 1878, the secretary of the navy sent out a circular regarding wages and overtime. Employees of the various navy yards performed labor entitling them to overtime payments under this circular, but through some reason or other they were not paid. They filed suits in the U. S. court of claims and won every one of them after having proven the service rendered.

Since the early '80s, the claimants have been endeavoring to get their bill through congress, making good their judgment obtained in the court of claims. Some sessions the bill would be passed by the house but not by the senate and at other sessions the situation would be reversed. The bills have been passed in this way for more than 40 years until a great many of the claimants have died and the money, if ever paid, will go to their heirs.

The pending bill, which has been passed by the senate, now goes to the house and, while it is not expected to pass before adjournment of this session, it will still be good in the short session beginning next December, when every effort will be made to get it out of the way.

Portland's opposition to the erection of a bridge across the Columbia river between Longview, Wn., and Rainier, Ore., has been successful so far, owing to the crowded condition of the senate calendar.

The bill came up on the unanimous consent calendar during the first night session of the senate, but was objected to by Senator McNary, which blocked its passage. Friends of the measure are now endeavoring to have the rules committee bring it up on the regular calendar, but unless congress stays in session longer than it now seems probable, the success of their efforts is seriously doubted.

Portland's opposition is based upon two reasons. One is that the bridge will divert coastwise traffic away from Portland and the other is that the bridge, it is alleged, would be a hindrance to navigation up the Columbia river.

Thomas Williams, San Francisco Spanish war veteran who sent the state department $250 expense money in returning his minor son from the Riffian battle front, has a surprise in store. Secretary of State Kellogg is sending him, through Senator Shortridge, a check for $103, representing money that was not needed in getting the boy home. Wesley Williams, the son, was captured by the Riffians while serving with the French foreign legion. He escaped and when he returned to his own ranks he was arrested as a deserter. Senator Shortridge brought about his release through the aid of the state department.

The entire California delegation is supporting the two coast guard bills, one providing for the building of 10 new cutters and the other for increasing the officer personnel.

At the last conference of the delegation called by Representative Curry, of Sacramento, Representative Lea, of Santa Rosa, reported he had received definite assurances from Admiral Billard, the commandant, that three of the cutters would be stationed on the west coast. It also is hoped that these three may be built by west coast yards.

While the new cutters would engage in the rum war, their duties would be the same as any coast guard cutter engaged in saving life and ships in distress. At the hearings before the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce in behalf of the cutter bill, it was revealed that 50 coast guard seamen have been drowned in the last year in the war on rum runners. Coast guard officers claim this fatality list is due to their lack of big boats, saying the small run chasers are not seaworthy in heavy weather and they often are so far from land that they cannot return in time to avoid a blow.

A bill forbidding the comptroller general from deducting the cost of hospitalization of a Spanish or Civil war veteran from the veteran's pension has been introduced by Congressman Curry, of Sacramento.

Such deductions are not made in the case of World War veterans, but under the present law the comptroller general has held that where a Spanish or Civil war veteran is hospitalized in a government institution, the cost of this hospitalization must be deducted from his pension.

Curry hopes to have the bill passed as an amendment to the World War veterans' bill now pending in the house, liberalizing the veterans' bureau act.

Senator Jones is persisting in his opposition to the removal of the gates in West Executive avenue, leading from Pennsylvania avenue to the White House. He objected again when the bill came up on the unanimous consent calendar recently.

The Washington senator believes these gates should not be moved. They were placed there years ago as a distinguishing mark for the entrance to the executive mansion. While the gates do block traffic somewhat, there is great opposition in the national capital against their removal.

Wife Declares Hubby Wore Her Silken Undies

BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 19.—Charging that her husband "always wore women's silk lingerie and corsets," Mrs. Edith Scofield has applied for alimony and counsel fees, pending trial of her action for separation from Robert Scofield, electrical engineer.

"Shortly after our marriage, I began to miss my silk underwear," Mrs. Scofield said in an affidavit. "After searching for it, I would find it hidden in desks and other places in my husband's room. I could never leave any of my clothes around the house."

Justice Riegleman reserved decision.

Movie Chatterbox

Realism in pictures has its penalties as well as putative profits. To wit an episode on the Reginald Denny picture "Take It From Me," for which $75,000 in department store merchandise was spread on counters while 500 extra players were working. Two shoplifters made way with a bundle of shirts, despite the vigilance of 10 plain-clothes videttes. And incidentally, movie companies pay 10 per cent of the value per week on such borrowed properties.

No matter with what pretty publicity speeches they may disclaim it, most producers do largely cater to that "ten-year-old intelligence" with which the average movie audience is accredited.

And since that is true, the producers might well preview their efforts before an audience of real youngsters who are picture wise, and whose preferences are explicit. I refer to the Hal Roach "Our Gang Comedy" kids. Hear then, their comment on the "art" of the cinema:

"These million dollar pictures are a lotta 'applesauce,'" contributes Joe Frank Cobb with the finality of a fat, tired young business man. "I saw one the other night, and there wasn't a good fight in it—just a lotta kissin' and cryin'."

"What for all dem big sets?" inquired smoky little Parina of a movie "clossio." "They-all can't do no excitments in dem pretty houses."

Mickey Daniels, Johnny Downs and Jackie Condon like horses and cowboy action and adventure. Skippy Lowry, the new kid from New York, firmly maintains that knockouts constitute the old real drammer.

Mary Kornman, true to her sex, delights in lavish gowns, and in scenes with babies, she recently having become an elder sister.

Action, thrills, suspense, chases and fights—that's the ticket for your true 10-year-old intelligence. And, to be frank, most of the heavily promoted stars are on the "Gang's" taboo list, locally known as the "raspberry class."

Do they, in this respect, perhaps show more than 10-year-old intelligence?

Your property man just has to be able to do everything, the poor, versatile fellow! Which is to say: "Aloma of the South Seas," Gilda Gray's first starring picture, was being filmed in the Paramount Long Island studio. A number of acrobatically clad girls, playing the parts of South Sea Islanders, had to hurry hither and thither serving patrons of a native cafe.

The girls began to pick up splinters in their feet. The down-trodden property men had to pick the splinters from each comely foot and treat with court plaster.

Three thousand feet of film picturing Theodore Roosevelt in actual life have been shipped from New York headquarters of the Roosevelt Memorial association to the west coast where "The Rough Riders" is being filmed.

The earliest of this film shows Roosevelt in 1901 when he became president following McKinley's death. The old pictures will be used for screen tests in picking the man to take the role of Roosevelt.

Many suggestions have been received urging that one of Roosevelt's sons, either Theodore or Kermit, be chosen to play the part. Hundreds have been tested but found lacking.

ment to close the motor transport repair shops at the Presidio of San Francisco, Camp Holabird, Md., and Camp Normole, Tex., has been reconsidered and these automotive plants will continue operations for at least another year. A careful cost analysis has resulted in the conclusion that the government will save money by continuing operation of the shops, it was said. Unit repair and replacement system will be the basis of operation for the next year, and instructions as to the new policy will soon be issued from the office of the quartermaster general, it was said.

wide on the bottom, other channels to be 150 feet wide at the bottom; the east jetty will cost approximately $150,000 to erect; the west jetty will be strengthened at a cost of $40,000.

Expenditures by private parties and by the city of Newport Beach already total $765,000. Newport Beach has expended $300,000 and private interests, $465,000.

Questions Are Answered.

Answering questions frequently heard as to why the city of Newport Beach does not improve the harbor instead of asking the county to vote bonds, Peabody pointed out that when the proposed county issue is voted, residents of the beach city will have obligated themselves in the sum of $124 per capita for harbor improvement, with a per capita of $15 being the obligation of residents outside the city of Newport Beach. Harbor costs to residents of the beach city will be $41 on the $1000 assessed valuation, while in the other districts of the county, the cost will be but $11.

The point was emphasized that, with an increase of $3,000,000 in assessed valuation, the harbor district would carry the entire costs of the project, including interest. Prediction was made that this increase would be made in a very few years following completion of the harbor and statements were made that inquiries by large industrial concerns indicated that they would locate on the harbor as soon as it is made available as a commercial port.

Protection to Bathers.

Lew H. Wallace spoke briefly on the proposition as a life protection to bathers. On June 9, 1924, nine lives were lost in the entrance channel, because of faulty conditions, which it is planned to remedy in the harbor construction, Wallace declared.

Citing the fact that if the projected harbor handled 100,000 tons of cargo a year, the returns would pay the interest and a sinking fund, plus an additional $10,000, and that the smallest part of the business done in Los Angeles amounts to two and one-half millions in the products which would be handled in the new harbor, Harry Welch wound up the discussion.

The meeting opened with a 6:30 dinner, served by members of the Women's club. A four-piece orchestra played during the dinner hour.

Approximately 130 members and their friends were present at the meeting. Word of endorsement of the harbor proposition was brought to the meeting from various organizations, including the Placentia Chamber of Commerce.

The Young Men's Christian Association has net property and endowment holdings amounting to $193,236,000, of which approximately 80 per cent is in the United States.

Since 1912 the number of government schools in China has increased from 57,267 to 178,972, with a corresponding increase in the number of students.

For you can use less of MJB to each spoonful and still have a rich, satisfying cup of coffee. Now multiply this saving 40 times each week—it counts up, doesn't it?

It is true you buy coffee by the pound but you drink it by the cup. So it's really the cost-per-cup that counts! And measured by this scale, MJB is the most economical coffee you can buy.

Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—The friends of Mrs. Helen M. Kowalczyk of 8319 Hope Avenue, were glad to hear that she has regained her health. For quite some time Mrs. Kowalczyk was quite ill and it was impossible for her to work. She took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build her up. After she had started taking it, she wrote to the Pinkham Company as follows: "I certainly feel stronger already and sleep sounder. I am very glad to spread the good news of how it has helped me."

ANCIENT CITY IN AFRICA TO BE EXCAVATED

ROME, May 19.—Mussolini's visit to Sabrata, on the edge of the African desert, will do much toward hastening the excavations of the ancient Phoenician city that for centuries has lain covered by the shifting sand.

The many wonderful Phoenician inscriptions that have been brought to light are of special interest, since so few have hitherto been found, except in the excavations on the island of Crete.

The prosperity of the town is indicated by the size of the amphitheater, which has now been uncovered. It had been built to hold 10,000 persons, and it is hewn out of sandy limestone, the steps being formed of huge blocks. Two huge caverns show where the original entrances were, and one on the eastern section has been reconstructed from material found buried in the sand.

Baths also have been cleared, and though it is evident these must have been elaborate, they are not as majestic as those of Leptis. There is also the remains of a Phoenician temple, with graffiti in that language and decorations of animals and figures, dedicated to the celestial goddess Tanit.

This goddess was worshiped also in Carthage. Judging from the figures and animals, it is thought that the temple dates from the first epoch of Phoenician art, prior to the fourth century, B. C.

The early excavations brought forth evidence of two periods, the more recent excavations bringing to light evidences of the Christian era. Inscriptions relating to the different epochs have been found all jumbled together as though thrown on a rubbish heap by numerous devastators.

There is an inscription to Caio Flavio Pulente, whose father had presented 12 beautiful fountains to the city which he had supplied with water at his own expense. Pulente gave the citizens of Sabrata a wonderful gladiatorial spectacle lasting five days, which so delighted the people that they decided to erect a quadriga in his honor. Believing that the thought alone was sufficient honor to be paid him, Pulente insisted on paying for the erection of this himself.

Ancient bronzes, statuary, mosaics and other wonders have been dug out of the sand in which they have lain so long.

FAIR ADVISORY BOARD AND EXECUTIVE COMMITTEES IN DISCUSSION OF 1926 SHOW

Billboards and rabbits, pageants and pigeons, cowboys and colors—these are but a few of a variety of subjects discussed last night at a joint meeting of the executive committee and the advisory board of the Orange County Fair association, at McFarland's cafe, Fullerton.

Conclusions as to the cowboys and pageants were left to committees with power to act. Indications, however, were that the program for the fair, in general, will be given over to matinee entertainments by rough-riding horsemen, with three evening shows to be put on by the horses and three by the Orange county group in charge of the pageant.

Plans for Pageant.

For a time it appeared as though the pageant might not be given this year. Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, of Garden Grove, chairman of the pageant committee, said that there had been some disposition to establish the historical spectacle, initiated at last year's fair, as an annual affair to be given in a natural amphitheater at the county park. She said that Robert C. Northcross, superintendent of the park, had pointed out a wonderful spot for just such a production. Mrs. Kelsey stated that the committee was willing to put on the pageant again this year at the fair, if the committees wished it done. The committees replied instantly and enthusiastically. It was stated that probably this would be the last time it would be given at the fair for it appeared likely that next year it would be given in the outdoor theater at the county park.

The county fair is to be given a distinct patriotic motif this year, under a decision reached last night. Red, white and blue will be the colors, and decorations will be worked out in keeping with the fact that this year marks the 150th anniversary of that year of years—1776.

The entertainment committee was authorized to carry to an end negotiations for putting on a horse show or rodeo. Races, gaited horses, expert rope-throwing, trick riding and rough stuff—all this and much more is promised by representatives of Los Angeles riding academies. They are willing to buy the concession if need be.

Exhibit of Rabbits.

Fur rabbits are to have a large place in the show according to plans announced last night. It is proposed to have a tent housing 1000 rabbits. Clyde Williams, of Anaheim, chairman of the rabbit committee, proposed to open the show to competitors from everywhere and to show both fur and meat rabbits. It was indicated that the entry fees would be $1 for the fur rabbit and 50 cents for the meat rabbit.

Offers were received from two billboard concerns to build an entrance and fence to the county fair

SOLUTION COTTON PROBLEM IS TOLD

ATLANTA, Ga., May 19.—New and greater foreign markets were advocated by W. J. Vereen, of Monticello, Ga., as a solution of the peculiar problems facing the cotton textile industry, in an address before the American Cotton Manufacturers' association, in convention here.

Vereen, president of the association, said if some plan could be devised whereby the surplus production could be marketed abroad, a salutary effect on the entire industrial fabric would result.

At present the surplus is being dumped on domestic markets with a detrimental effect on the industry, he said.

"It would be better to sell abroad at whatever price we can get than to marlaze the domestic markets," he argued.

Woman Is Forced To Pay Alimony

MOSCOW, May 19.—Alimony works both ways in the Soviet union, as may be seen from a recent court decision ordering Mrs. Mary Gastev to pay a quarter of her salary to her former husband until the latter finds a job.

Gastev was a soldier in the Russian civil war. When he returned from the front his wife applied for and obtained a divorce. The daughter remained with the mother, while the son was in the custody of the father. Recently Gastev lost his position. When his wife refused to contribute to the support of the son he went to law on the matter and the court upheld his claim.

The fair management was given authority to proceed with whatever arrangements may be found advisable in connection with the advance sale of tickets by organizations.

HUMAN BEINGS SACRIFICED BY BURMA TRIBES

ALLAHABAD, May 19.—After months in the wilds of Burma stamping out slave trading and negotiating with the Nagas for the abolition of human sacrifice, J. T. O. Bernard, deputy commissioner, Burma frontier service, has arrived at Calcutta, where he has given an account of his work.

Barnard states that the number of slaves set free is 3445, which did not come to the exaggerated expectations that had been formed. The cost of compensation to the owners amounted to 13,600 rupees.

Emancipation Brings Joy

The emancipation of the Kachins was the cause of unimaginable joy and of gratitude to the "great white chief," Sir Harcourt Butler, Governor of Burma. As a token of gratitude, a feeble and infirm old woman placed an amber ring on Barnard's hand. Her chief joy was that she and her family were able to live free of the thought that at any moment separation might be effected by the sudden sale of one member to another master.

The expedition to the Nagas was full of danger, owing to the treacherous character of these otherwise simple-minded people. The unpleasant possibilities of attack by animals and the attentions of leeches were the chief inconveniences.

Demand Big Human Sacrifice

Thirty-four villages agreed to give up human sacrifice. Others suggested that if the government would provide victims for holding one final and complete sacrifice the practice would be stopped.

Barnard, who was accompanied by a captain of the Indian army, finally made such headway that he thinks that by means of a durbar and financial good will the practice can be stopped. The victims are slaves purchased from the wild and warlike Nagas in the unadministered territory, and therefore the main problem is stopping the supply. The Nagas are likely to resist a survey of the country. But Barnard is convinced that, as in Kachin, the only question is that of paying one's way.

Entertained by Gramophone

The Naga villagers, like the Kachins, were greatly entertained by a gramophone, but the heliograph and the telephone filled them with awe. The Nagas in question are those south of the Patkal range. In an area of 5000 square miles are 25,000 people living in 135 villages, all hankering after human sacrifice. The last Europeans who traveled through this tract are believed to be the Griffiths expedition of 1835.

Barnard left the Kachin country with 12 rifles on March 31, and traveled through the Naga country for Ledo, in Assam, on the Dibru-sadiya railway. Evidences were found of the practice of human sacrifice, and also of the care taken to prepare the victim, who was usually placed in a species of stocks and fed and watered like an animal for two months before he was sacrificed. Barnard was accompanied to Calcutta by two Kachin chiefs, who were bewildered by the sights of the great city.

14 Earthquakes Per Day In Tokio During Last Year

TOKIO, May 19.—The records at the seismology bureau of the Tokio observatory show that Tokio had an average of 14 earthquakes a day during 1925, although the number perceptible to the residents was not more than two or three a month.

The seismograph, which detects the least tremble of the earth, recorded only 323 shivers for 1924, but 5297 for 1925.

There were three earthquakes last year of consequence, doing damage. The heaviest was on the north coast in Takima province, on May 22. The other in Japan proper was at Gifu 17, while the third good shock for the empire hit the eastern coast of Formosa on June 14.

So far this year there have been no earthquakes of any consequence.

Brazil-Mexico Ship Line May Be Established

MEXICO CITY, May 19.—Antonio de Feltoza, Brazilian ambassador here, and Aaron Sznaz, secretary of foreign relations, have held several conferences recently regarding the possibility of establishing a steamship line between Mexican and Brazilian ports.

It is understood that both sides are fully agreed on the advantages to be derived from such a service, and that it is merely a matter of detail as to how the service may best be established.

A much larger volume of trade between the two countries is expected to develop, as well as closer relationship politically.

U. S. Advertising Praised In Sweden

STOCKHOLM, May 19.—High praise for American advertising methods was expressed here by Ernst Grafstrom, director of a large Swedish agency, when he returned from a study trip in the United States.

"We often joke about the American habit of boasting," he said, "but the practice of using untruths or exaggerations in making propaganda for an article is not in vogue in the United States. All that is sought is to recommend the goods, explain their merits and urge the public to try them. The final judgment is left to the buyer."

American advertising technique is more copied here as a part of the general "Americanization" of the country. The Swedish newspaper "ads" also look very much like the American, especially those announcing American made goods in common use here, such as motor cars, foodstuffs, moving picture films and toilet articles.

Know a maker's reputation and you know the service that his goods will render.

Union Gasoline

Non-detonating

Union Gasoline provides, and always has provided to Western motorists, the non-detonating feature which supplies full power to the pistons throughout their entire stroke and eliminates all explosive "knocking" or "pinging" on the hills or in heavy pulling—a quality for which Eastern motorists are now buying "special gasolines" and paying 3 cents per gallon in excess of usual prices for them. Yet Union costs no more than other high grade fuels.

Always use Aristo Motor Oil with non-detonating Union Gasoline because this combination minimizes carbon to the extent that motors in good condition are run for several years without it.

LET THIS COUPON START YOU ON THE ROAD TO REGULAR DIVIDENDS

for Economical Transportation

Everybody says "It costs so little to Own and to Operate"

Although it is bigger and more rugged than other low-priced cars, Chevrolet has a world-wide reputation of costing less to own and to operate.

This reputation has been won, first, by the longer life, slower depreciation, and freedom from repair that result from Chevrolet's modern design—and, second, by the oil and gas economy of Chevrolet's powerful valve-in-head motor.

Hundreds of thousands of Chevrolet owners will tell you that this car is not only powerful, speedy, comfortable and smart appearing—but that you can enjoy its exclusive advantages at a cost which is lower than you imagine. Come in—get a demonstration and let us show you why this is true.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Events in the stock market today went a long way toward proving that the market has an inherent strength and ability to resist professional selling. After a firm opening, the market concentrated selling in a number of issues which a short while ago suffered from pool selling.

Several of these stocks had sharp declines while the rest of the market made moderate price concessions but in the main looked on rather placidly. Later the selling spent its force and the leading issues firmed in price. Young trading volume was much reduced.

Steel trade reviews told of new business still in fair volume and better than April, but with some contraction of operations of foreign exchanges did better, with Belgian and French francs and lire having small rallies while sterling was slightly lower.

Announcement of additional $154,000,000 American Telephone stock brought some selling and a minor reaction but the stock later showed a gain on the day.

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE CHICAGO, May 19.—With the exception of May wheat all grains closed lower on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

May wheat was sharply up because there was considerable short covering in view of the fact that there are only nine trading days left in this delivery.

Government crop reports, weather forecasts, export reports and foreign news were all bearish, save for some isolated crop reports and caused a watchful attitude on the floor.

Although corn receipts were double those of yesterday, this grain closed fractionally lower in all deliveries. It was influenced by wheat to a large extent.

Oats closed lower; provisions closed higher.

ANOTHER MISTAKE

Once upon a time a certain manager tried to make an infielder out of the great Christy Mathewson, one of the most remarkable pitchers in the history of the game.

That is merely told as preface to the story of Fred Lucas, pitching sensation of the Cincinnati Reds.

Two years ago, while looking over the Boston Braves in spring training, I observed a young man by the name of Lucas caving around second base.

I was told that Lucas was a reformed pitcher who was being converted into a second baseman with the best of results.

It didn't seem at the time as if Lucas was destined to rival Eddie Collins as a fielder.

DOES A COMEBACK

When the season opened Lucas, highly touted as a second sacker in the spring, was not in the lineup. Evidently his pitching didn't impress, because he was soon shipped to Seattle in the Pacific Coast league.

At Seattle he pitched with success and because of his ability to hit was used as emergency outfielder. He finished the season with a batting average close to .400.

This spring we find Lucas back in the big show as a member of the Cincinnati Reds.

Of the first 13 games won by Cincinnati, he captured four of his first five starts and, used as a pinch-hitter, really had another to his credit by coming through with a timely swat. And still they once tried to make a second baseman out of Pitcher Lucas. That also goes for Christy Mathewson.

MACK EXPLAINS

Proper temperament, as well as unusual managerial ability, explains the remarkable success that has been the portion of Connie Mack.

Connie is an optimist. He can always see a silver lining to the darkest situation.

Picked to be a pennant-contender from the start, the first month was a most disappointing one for the Mackmen and found them resting in the second division.

Meeting the club for the first time with an average around .500, I made inquiries as to the failure of the team to show against the eastern opposition.

"Haven't a single kick to register about the play of the team," remarked Connie.

"The pitching was uniformly good; the team played smart baseball; the fighting spirit was always there, but we just couldn't win for the lack of a timely base hit."

"Really we should have won the

COACH BERG TO QUIT POST AT ORANGE SCHOOL

Announcement by M. J. Berg, head coach of athletics at Orange high school, of his intention of accepting a more lucrative menial position in another Southern California school was made yesterday afternoon, when first notice was given out concerning the appointment of teachers in the high school there for the fall term.

Berg, who has coached several championship teams since he came to Orange three years ago, has definitely decided to accept one of several offers in the southern district, it was learned.

Berg gained particular notice as a result of his football team of 1924, which was runner-up for the high school championship of Southern California.

No other coach has been considered as yet as a successor to Berg, Orange officials stated.

PASADENA, Calif., May 19.—Charles Paddock, who set a new world's record of 9.5 seconds for the 100 yard dash Saturday, has received congratulations for the feat from Arthur Duffy, of Boston. Duffy was the first person to run the century in 9.6 seconds.

"Congratulations on breaking the 100 yard record," Duffy said in a telegram. "I knew you would do it some day. More power to you."

AMERICAN AMATEUR GOLFERS FAIL TO DISPLAY EXPECTED FORM IN WALKER CUP TESTS

NEW YORK, May 19.—America's amateur golfers who have invaded England to compete for the Walker cup, thus far have failed to display expected form in three important tests. On Saturday the invaders, with the single exception of George Von Elm, the young Californian, were badly handicapped by the miserable weather conditions and Major C. O. Hezlet, Irish champion, won the St. George challenge vase.

Von Elm, fighting desperately in the face of a powerful wind and rain squall, tied for second honors with Robert Harris, British amateur champion.

While Americans were chagrined at their team's showing in the medal event, it was chiefly expected they would triumph in match play. This hope, however, did not materialize.

Two days of play with the Oxford-Cambridge Golfing society saw the Americans barely nose out a victory and yesterday the invaders dropped six and halved one of the ten matches with the Moles, a working club.

Cables from London today said the Americans had left for Muirfield, Scotland, where the British amateur tournament starts Monday. Several practice sessions had been held this week and the Americans may be in condition to provide a finalist who for the first time in its history, will walk away with the British amateur trophy.

Watts Gunn and Von Elm, who are newcomers to international play, have drawn considerable praise from their British opponents. Both are cautious in their shots and are particularly deadly with their iron.

Of the veterans, Bobby Jones and Francis Ouimet, have been coming along steadily and should breeze through the early championship rounds at Muirfield. Bobby had a good morning round Saturday but blew up in the afternoon when he persistently found traps with his tee shots.

LUTZ STARS AS BLAUERS SNARE FOURTH IN ROW

Although given their toughest and closest run of the current campaign, the F. C. Blauers Grocers wrested their fourth consecutive victory in the Santa Ana City Indoor Baseball league from the Southern Counties Gas company team Lincoln park last night. The score was 7 to 3.

Getting off in front by scoring a single marker in the third and a brace of tallies in the fifth, the "gas house gang" looked capable of breaking the winning streak of the Blauers but some great hitting in the pinches by Everett Lutz, the Grocers' star second baseman, enabled the league-leaders to go out in front in the sixth never to be headed.

Lutz came up in the fourth with Gole and Jerome on base and two out. He singled cleanly, scoring both of his teammates. The Blauers were still trailing, 3 to 2, in the sixth when Jerome singled and Cole doubled. Luck popped out and again Lutz, with two out, came through—this time blasting a clean double to left that again scored Jerome and Cole. Lutz made the rounds on wild pitches.

The Blauers scored their last two runs off Wayne Nelson, who relieved Christenson at the beginning of the seventh. West singled, went to second on an overthrow and was wild pitched home while Wilcox was getting a walk. Wilcox completed the circuit before the side was retired.

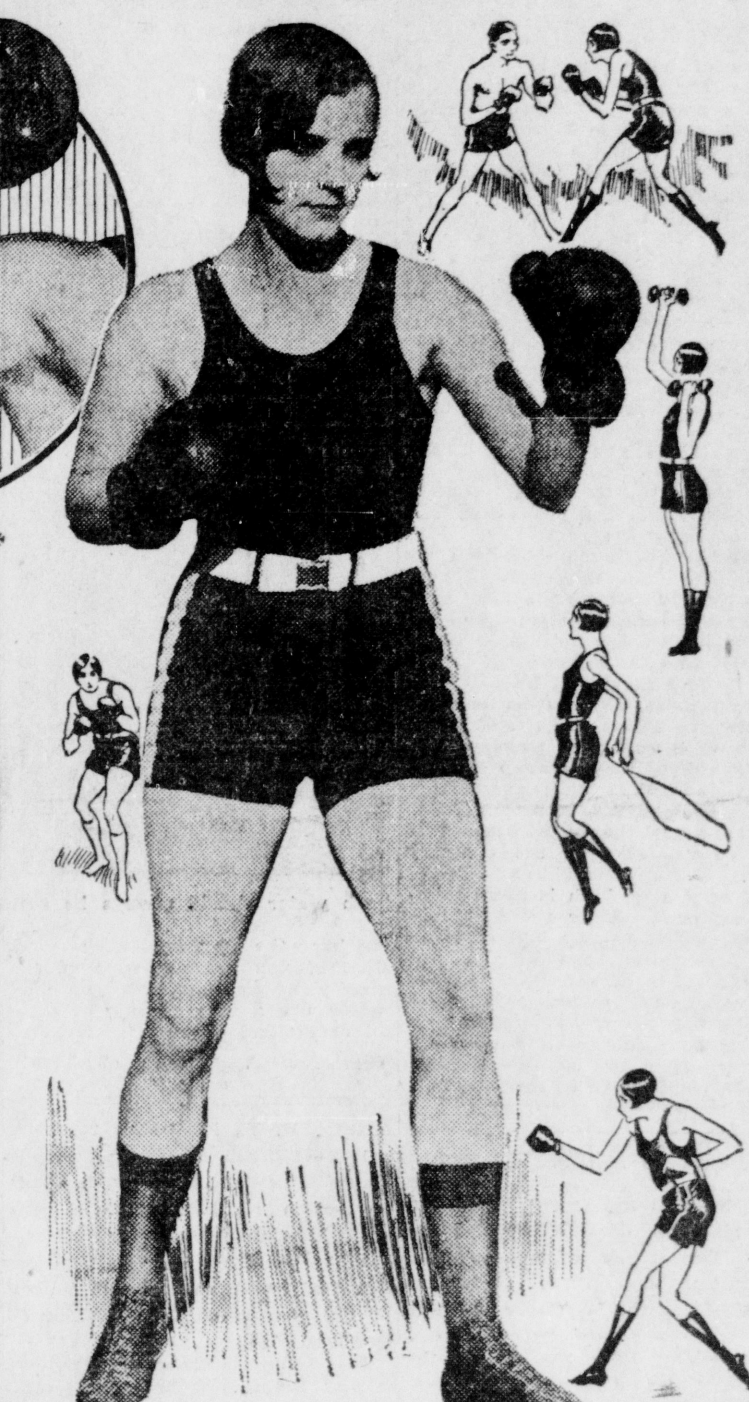

Horace Snow, the Blauers' bespectacled mound ace, was rapped solidly in the first five frames but he settled down after that, pitching no-hit ball in the last four rounds.

Allender singled to begin the Gas company's half of the third but was forced at second by Pipp's but was nailed stealing. Bandick was safe on Bryan's error, however, and scored when Christenson doubled to left center.

The other Gas company tallies were made in the fifth and again Christenson again scored them. Nuffer and Allender hit safely but Christenson thereupon tripled, emptying the sacks. Turner grounded out to end the rally.

Schultz, Howard, Lee and Claves to Race Against Fleet U. S. C. Youngster

More than 80 athletes, the pick of Orange county, are expected to compete in the second annual Orange county A. A. U. track and field meet on the Santa Ana high school oval next Saturday afternoon.

Entries from the high schools of Santa Ana, Orange, Tustin, San Juan Capistrano, Huntington Beach, Anaheim and Fullerton already have been received. Coach Graham Harris, who is managing the affair, said today.

Harris was in Los Angeles Saturday completing plans for the meet. Tom Davis and J. Case were obtained to act as A. A. U. officials.

A feature of the meet, Harris declared, will be the appearance of the frosh sprinter, Charley Borah of the University of Southern California, who pressed Charley Paddock to a new world record in the 100 yard dash in the Los Angeles Coliseum Saturday. Scores of spectators at the race still swear that Borah won the race.

Several of the same men who ran in the race when the world record was shattered will toe the mark in the special 100 yard sprint here. Besides Borah, there will be Murray Schultz of Caltech; Cecil Howard of Compton high school, Al Claves, Santa Ana junior college, and probably Bob Lee and Morton Kaer of the University of Southern California.

Jack Williams, freshmen vaulting ace of U. S. C. has not definitely entered but he may be here to do the Charley Hoff act. Williams is a consistent 13-foot vaulter.

A new member has been added to the program in the medley relay battle between a team of former Orange county athletes, now attending Pomona college, and a quartette of Santa Ana high school and junior college tracksters. On the Pomona squad will be Petty Allee, Natland and Finley. They will be met by a Santa Ana team composed of Bear, Claves, Squires and Vawter.

HUFF TO LEAD IN FIGHT FOR VOTE SWITCH

Seeks Organization in County to Aid in Battle Against Apportionment

Under the direction of D. Eymann Huff, manager of Hewes ranch at El Modena, an effort will be made to organize a county committee to assist the passage of a initiative measure to invalidate apportionment of the legislative representation of the state, according to the plans of the California Farm Bureau federation. A. M. Stanley, secretary-manager of the Orange County Farm Bureau, has been appointed secretary of the new committee, which will correlate its work with that of a state-wide committee for the same purpose. The farm bureau's statement follows:

"The farm bureau membership has been on record for several years in favor of such a measure, feeling that if the state is to be widely governed it must be free from the control of any group, or the menace of future control by any group, so that every legislative proposal may stand on its own merits if it is for the best interest of the state.

Oppose Federal Plan.
"After considerable study, it has been decided that the soundest plan would be to follow, as nearly as possible, the plan used by the United States for the election of senators and congressmen, and a plan has been drafted and approved along the lines of the federal plan. This would mean that the representation in the assembly would be on a population basis and in the senate the 40 senators would be divided between the 58 counties so that no county had more than one senator and no senatorial district of the more thinly populated counties would contain more than three counties.

"Under this plan of representation, the United States has developed to a place as leader of the nations of the world and the farmers of California think that we must have the best and wisest plan applied to our affairs.

Farmers Would Run Senate.
"By this plan the control of the assembly will rest in the larger cities and the control of the senate will be in the 53 rural counties. With this balancing of power the state will be assured of less politics and more statesmanship.

"The committee will also work in the interest of the dairy industry relative to the passage of the Johnson Act regulating the sale of oleomargarine."

SAN LUIS SCHOOL BEEF IS HONORED

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—The California polytechnic school of San Luis Obispo was signally honored in agriculture here today when the "baby beef" shipped here by 10 students was adjudged the "grandest beef find" ever produced in California.

More than 500 leading cattlemen of the state welcomed the young students, with their choice offerings, at the union stockyards, where 25 cents per pound was offered in the early trading, with bids rising rapidly during the day.

Fifty-seven head of prime test beef was included in the shipment. The cattle was raised by students of polytechnic who are specializing in year-old calves, fattened in the yard on alfalfa, grain and cottonseed.

The beef, said to be among the best ever sold west of the Mississippi, was disposed of at public auction by Tex Condon, famous beef auctioneer.

Only 65 per cent of the pigs fattened live to reach the market. Of the 35 per cent that die, the greatest mortality occurs during the first 10 days according to the Department of Agriculture.

Wheat production in Chile is placed at 27,587,000 bushels, or 3,000,000 bushels more than last year's crop, according to estimates. This will permit about 5,000,000 bushels to be exported.

CHIEF U. S. INSECT CHASER

Dr. Maurice C. Hall, chief of the zoological division of the bureau of animal industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is the chief insect chaser of the country. He's going to Nicaragua to run down the source from which many forms of parasites have come to ravage our livestock.

Nicaragua Studied for Prevention of Diseases Attacking U. S. Livestock

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The invading bugs and worms which come up periodically from the tropics to settle among the livestock herds of the United States may expect soon to encounter stern exclusion measures.

The warm, humid belt from the Rio Grande to Brazil has served through centuries as an incubator for parasitic diseases, according to the Department of Agriculture. Now the department is doing something about it. Dr. Maurice C. Hall, chief of the zoological division, bureau of animal industry, will leave shortly to spend the summer in Nicaragua and make a survey of parasitic diseases of livestock there.

"Parasitic diseases of animals sweep over the country just as a migration of savage human tribes," says Dr. Hall. "Many of them are brought to us from Mexico and Central America because the natural course of their livestock is northward to our markets.

"In the last 15 years several parasite diseases, which at first were regarded as purely southern or tropical, have spread all over the United States. These include the nodular worm disease in sheep and the kidney worm in swine.

Not All Go North
"On the other hand, there has been at least one migration southward. It is of the nose bot fly, attacking horses, which has moved within the last few years from the Canadian border to Kansas and Colorado."

Virtually nothing is known with exactness about what parasite diseases exist in Nicaragua. Dr. Hall intends to find out in order to help the natives eradicate them and to prevent infection spreading northward.

Dr. Hall will go to Nicaragua with Dr. D. M. Molloy of the Rockefeller Foundation, who has had charge of malaria and hookworm work there for the past 10 years. Dr. Hall, in addition to his parasite survey, will act as a consultant on the hookworm treatment. A remedy for hookworm, which he discovered effective on animals about five years ago, has proved equally effective for men, and he is considered an authority on the disease.

Subject of First Test
In applying his remedy, carbon tetrachloride, to human use, Dr. Hall first tested it on himself. He swallowed a dose and found it was not fatal. Now nearly 2,000,000 human cases have been treated by his method.

"The work of the parasite survey in Nicaragua naturally will deal mostly with livestock but not exclusively," Dr. Hall says.

"I shall go to the meat shops and abattoirs and examine all the animals I can get my hands on. In addition, I shall examine all the dogs I can. It is remarkable how close to the health of dogs parallels that of human beings in the same community."

Farm Bureau In Move To Force Food Markings

The California Farm Bureau federation has requested the American Farm Bureau federation to have its Washington representatives present to congressmen and senators the necessity for a change in the federal pure food and drug act to provide that foreign grown products shall be so marked when offered for sale.

It is found that many foreign products, many of which are said to be inferior to the domestic products, are so marked as to mislead buyers to believe they are getting the domestic product when buying the foreign and this competition is proving unsatisfactory to grower and consumer alike.

The federation is investigating the desirability of an advance in the tariff on tomatoes and tomato products.

It is indicated that foreign competition is so severe that neither growers nor canners can make expenses handling this commodity and several of the heavy tomato producing countries are complaining of the situation.

The life and productive age of the domestic fowl may be lengthened, according to F. L. Knowlton of the Oregon Agricultural college.

"HERO" BARLEY FIELDS SEEN BY GRAIN MEN

Smooth-bearded Product Is Inspected on Osterman And Buchheim Ranches

By WILLIAM CORY
Assistant Farm Advisor

Coming as the sixth annual field day of the grain growers department participated in the tour of inspection last Saturday. As the grain crop generally is reasonably good a splendid opportunity of comparing the adaptability of the various varieties was afforded.

Hero Barley Newly Introduced

This year, for the first time, an opportunity was had of observing Hero barley in field planting. Two plots of over ten acres each were inspected during the day. One planted on land farmed by Aaron Buchheim and the other on John Osterman's place. The Hero barley is different from other varieties in that it has a smooth beard, thus doing away with the most objectionable feature of barley hay. From a grain standpoint it appeared about equal to Oregon Club Marlow. Its grain yield was just estimated, however, as none has been threshed yet and no opportunity to compare the yield. Its stalk is perhaps somewhat weaker than some of the other varieties as it appeared to lodge slightly worse. When planted for hay it is thought the most favorable time would be about the first of February.

"4000" Barley

Fields of "4000," Oregon Club Marlow and common barley were also visited during the day. "4000" barley, which is a selection of the coast or common barley, appeared probably to the best advantage of all varieties, considering tonnage of straw and grain yield. This was further substantiated by a chart showing the comparative grain yields of different varieties since 1925. From past records the "4000" has exceeded in yield both the Oregon Club Marlow and common varieties in pounds of grain per acre. The Oregon Club Marlow outyielded the common variety. It has a tendency to grow somewhat shorter than other varieties. However, its demand on soil moisture is less and will make a crop where others will fail. All of the barley fields were exceptionally free of smut.

An extremely interesting point was noted in the freeness from rust in one field of Early Defiance wheat sown shortly after the first of the year. As opposed to this was another field of Early Defiance wheat sown between November 1 and 15 which was badly damaged by rust.

New Out Variety

Texas Red oats have been the accepted variety for planting under our conditions. Two plantings of Fulghum oats were made, one on land farmed by Jerome Brothers and the other by Aaron Buchheim. The Fulghum oats came on in fine shape in the spring indicating much heavier hay tonnage and grain yield than the Texas Red. However, conditions were favorable for rust development and the Fulghum suffered much more severely than the Texas Red which makes its adaptability and general acceptance questionable. On years such as we have had previously, when conditions were not conducive to rust development, the Fulghum oats unquestionably would outyield the Texas Red. However, it is questionable whether the growers can afford to take chances on large acreages.

Rod Row Trials

A stop was made where new varieties are tested out in rows to determine their adaptability before field plantings are made. Many varieties are eliminated here without going further, so that no heavy loss is sustained when they prove unsatisfactory. Eight varieties of wheat were tried out this year. Of these, but two showed to advantage. They were Escondido and Pusa. They will be tried more extensively next year.

Conclusions

At the end of the trip grain men offered the following conclusions for the benefit of those growers who did not have the opportunity of attending: (1) Hero barley from present indications might well take the place of other varieties when grown for hay. (2) Oregon Club Marlow and "4000" barley outyielded the common variety in pounds of grain per acre. (3) Fulghum oats will outyield Texas Red if it does not rust. It is more susceptible to rusting and should be grown advisedly. (4) The later planting of Early Defiance suffered less from rust this year than the early planting. (5) Escondido and Pusa wheat showed up favorably in the rod rows, suffering but very little from rust. (6) Fields from which seed is saved should be carefully rogued for foreign plants and varieties, that clean seed may be obtained. (7) Steps should be taken toward the attainment of certified seed. (8) Rod row trials should be continued and duplicated to note the effect of early planting and late planting.

The grain growers department were deeply grateful and indebted to the women of El Toro for the splendid luncheon served at noon.

The life history of the pest, the time and method of applying insecticides, and other vital points are discussed. FARM PRODUCTS BRINGING LESS THAN IN 1925

By JOSEPH S. WASNEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Farmers are getting less money for their products now than at any time since the middle of last year despite general prosperity of the country.

The federal reserve board, in its industrial review today, pointed to a general recession of agriculture prices, with grains, cotton, wool and livestock all going down.

Farmers will have bumper crops if the weather conditions are seasonable. Winter wheat is reported at $4.1 of normal, an increase in condition of 1.4 per cent over the December 1 estimate in contrast to an average decline in condition of 5.7 points over a ten year period.

Reports from nearly all cotton growing states indicate that efforts are being made to increase the acreage of food and feed crops to reduce the acreage planted to cotton.

Citrus fruits in both California and Florida are reported to be making satisfactory progress.

PROBLEMS OF THE SOIL

Q.—I have so much trouble in ripening figs properly. When they are nearly ripe they split and turn sour. It certainly is not for lack of water, as I water them every two weeks.—Mrs. W. O.

A.—A splitting and souring of figs is nearly always caused by too much water, either in the air or in the soil. Air moisture, humidity, such as caused by fogs or rains, is not under your control, but soil moisture very largely is. Figs should be irrigated very sparingly when they are ripening. An irrigation every two weeks at any season of the year is entirely too frequent and this would be particularly true at the ripening period. After growth is well started in the spring, gradually reduce the amount and frequency of irrigation and finally withhold it altogether. Commercial growers irrigate very little after May or June, depending, of course, to some extent upon the character of the soil. Trees growing in well-drained, sandy soils will probably need water over a longer period than those in heavy, poorly drained soils. In many parts of the state figs are grown with little or no water outside of that falling during the winter. No other fruit can be spoiled so easily by excessive irrigation as the fig.

Q.—Last spring I lost two plantings of beans and corn by wireworms and small maggots. I would like to replant the same patch with melons and beans this year. Will the melon seeds be subject to attack and how can I protect the bean seed?—W. P. H.

A.—Wireworms and seed maggots are hard to control. For the former, one of the best remedies is to plant potatoes in the rows or hills some little time before planting to the desired crop. These trap pieces can be attached to a wire extending to the ground surface and be pulled up every few days to destroy the wireworms attracted to the bait. In case you do not care to go to this trouble you can plant your potato seed pieces as above indicated and after a week or two work calcium cyanide dust into the rows or hills so planted. This will kill larvae near or in the baits. If the seed maggots attack the seeds in the ground and before the young plants appear, there are two remedies you may try, although neither is a complete guarantee of protection: Soak the seed for 5 or 10 minutes in a corrosive sublimate solution, one tablet (7.5 grains) to one pint of water, and when planting cover as deeply and thoroughly as practicable. The adult of the seed maggot is a small fly and the eggs must either be laid on or near the seeds or on the young plants after they germinate and appear above ground. The corrosive sublimate solution acts as a repellent and the thorough covering with earth, of course, prevents egg-laying on the seed.

Q.—I am writing to ask you when I should spray my trees. I think they have black scale. I had them sprayed last year at this time, but it didn't seem to do much good. Also, what can be done for trees that crack and gum around the bottom?—Mrs. R. L. E.

A.—Black scales are not in a condition to be killed by either fumigation or sprays at this time of year. When these scales are fully mature and in the egg stage, as at present, no satisfactory method of control is known. After the eggs hatch and before the young larvae reach what is called the rubber stage, it is very easy to kill them by any one of the approved sprays or by fumigation. This will be from early July to September or October.

Presumably the trees you refer to as cracking and gumming are citrus. The cause is a fungus and the disease is known as gummosis. The remedy is to carefully scrape away all the dead and injured bark, cutting back to live and healthy bark. Care should be used not to cut through the inner bark to the wood unless it is necessary. After all the dead bark has been removed, paint the exposed surfaces with some good disinfectant, such as Bordeaux paste.

Q.—Two avocado trees have dropped nearly all their leaves and those that are left seem badly burned around the edges. Fruit has set several times but always drops before it gets any size at all. Can you suggest cause for this and if there is a remedy?—W. B.

A.—Some trees, particularly seedlings, have this habit. The leaves burn easily with the sun and wind and then drop. Such trees are highly subject to frost as a rule. Occasionally trees planted in shallow soil and insufficiently irrigated will tip-burn badly. Fruit drop of course, may be associated with leaf drop, although it often occurs on trees where the leaves do not behave this way.

In such cases the answer is usually irregular moisture supply or imperfect pollution. The correction of moisture irregularity can easily be made, but pollution can only be improved by planting other varieties nearby so that cross-pollination may be effected.

SOIL MOISTURE HOLDING WELL SAYS WAHLBERG

Behoooves Growers to Use Auger for Testing More Often Than Before

By H. E. WAHLBERG
County Farm Advisor

The taking of numerous soil samples during the past week by the agricultural extension service indicates that, as a general rule, the moisture content of the average soils is holding up in good shape. The copious rains of the past month have supplied ample quantity of water, equivalent to a good irrigation, or better.

It will behoove the grower this spring more than ever to use his soil auger to guide him in an intelligent program of irrigation.

There will be more danger from over-irrigation following the recent period of heavy rains than has presented itself for several years past.

Many groves located on the loams, the clay loams and clay soils will not require irrigation for some time, the period involved depending upon the type of soil. The use of the soil auger is particularly emphasized for this season.

If a cover crop is present, the surface foot or fifteen inches might be somewhat dry, in which case a shallow irrigation would answer the needs of the orchard. To put additional water where moisture is already present will do no good to the tree and will result in actual harm, and if repeated will reduce root activity and availability of fertilizer elements.

where the leaves do not behave this way.

In such cases the answer is usually irregular moisture supply or imperfect pollution. The correction of moisture irregularity can easily be made, but pollution can only be improved by planting other varieties nearby so that cross-pollination may be effected.

FAMILY NIGHT AT Y. M. C. A. TO BE OBSERVED

The Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. will observe "family night" on Friday of this week, when all the members and friends of the association, with their families, are invited to spend a social evening at the building.

A program of entertainment has been planned under the direction of the social committee, headed by Martin Warren.

A swimming competition at 7:30 o'clock will open the entertainment program. Oscar Hanson, John Keller, Lloyd Grete, Paul Snow, Roy Landsey, John Estes, Royce Taylor, Bert Winslow and Harold Bove will participate in the swimming contests, which will include a 20-yard swim, a 50-yard swim, a plunge for distance, and a swim for distance under water. There will be novelty stunts, such as marching on the water, swimming with hands and feet tied, fancy diving, and the like. This event in the swimming pool will be open to as many spectators who can get into the gallery space. Both men and women will be admitted.

At 8 o'clock, there will be a short program in the gymnasium. Two volleyball teams of business men will play an exhibition game, and afterward a squad of gymnasts will present stunts in the line of high diving on the mats, flips and turns. This squad includes Don Anderson, Fred Durbin, Homer Humphreys and Herbert Prior.

At 9 o'clock, there will be a program of music and short talks in the main lobby, with an opportunity for those present to get acquainted with one another. Warren states that the affair is not limited to members of the Y. M. C. A., but that all friends of the work are welcome. Plans are being made to receive a large crowd.

Capital Letter

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Representative Victor L. Berger is leader of the smallest party group in congress.

Senator Shipstead constitutes the entire Farmer-Labor group in the upper house, but in the lower one there are two Farmer-Laborites—three all told.

In both houses put together the Socialists are only half that strong. Yes, that's correct. They number one and a half.

Representative Berger explained this the other day.

He's a 100 per cent Socialist. Representative LaGuardia sat in the 65th, 66th and 68th congresses as a Republican. Then he got too liberal for his district's Republican organization and it refused him a re-nomination. Whereupon the Socialists elected him to this, the 69th congress, on their ticket.

Berger likes and approves of him. "But," he says, "he's only half a Socialist."

Berger considers his party a mighty important and useful institution in congress, even if it does count only one and a half, for he points that it's the only consistent "opposition" the Republican-Democratic party has.

That is to say, as he views it—and so do a lot of other folks—you no longer can tell Republicans and Democrats apart.

In his opinion—and a lot of other people's, too—the dominant party ought always to have an "opposition," to criticize it and keep it more or less worried, which tends to make it behave.

That, Berger, says, is the function of his Socialist one and a half.

"Besides which," he adds, "there are three or four others who vote with us now and then, like Cars and Weinfeld, the Farmer-Laborites, and Huddleston, who really is a democrat, with a little 'd'—one of the very few of that kind of Democrats left."

But the Progressives? Aren't they an "opposition?" Let us see.

Representative Berger made a speech in congress last January, in which he began like this:

"Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the house, Aesop tells a fable of the bat, who, in the war between the quadrupeds and the birds, posed as a quadruped or as a bird, according to which side was victorious. But the bat was found out and shunned by both sides ever after."

The Progressives, he said, reminded him of that bat.

One may hazard the guess that Berger has been none too popular among the Progressives since the day he made that speech. It won't be much of a hazard, either. In fact, it's the correct guess.

One may surmise also that the bat speech tickled the regulars on both sides half to death. It did, indeed. Whenever Victor Berger wants to make a speech in the house of representatives the regular organization sees that he gets the chance and as much time as he needs.

He doesn't take undue advantage of it. "Out of the 435 members of the house," he told me, "I wish we had 35, instead of only one and a half. Then we could scatter our speeches around without being tiresome. But I can't do it all myself. If I tried I'd be as big a nuisance as—"

However, let's mention no names. Every member of the house of representatives will know who Berger meant.

U. S. Prohibition Is Approved By Swedish Senator

STOCKHOLM, May 18.—Prohibition has made the United States prosperous and European pleas for debt cancellations come with bad grace from those who somehow manage to pay bigger sums for drink, declared Senator Johan Bergman in a church address at Valhalla, a Stockholm suburb.

The senator, who is also a former professor at the University of Stockholm, was one of the Swedish delegates to the interparliamentary union, in Washington, last fall, and after the sessions were over made a tour of the country to observe the effects of prohibition.

"It is little wonder," he said, "that American public opinion gets provoked when one European nation after another comes as a supplicant, asking for a more or less complete cancellation of its debts, while at the same time finding means to pay the most exhausting tribute to King Alcohol. The American indignation justly goes beyond all limits when European liquor capitalists in the war-exhausted countries contribute money support for a campaign against the eighteenth amendment."

McGraw's Record

Noted the other day where John McGraw has signed a new three-year contract to manage the Giants. That will set to rest all rumors that McGraw intended to retire. The supposition was that that he was grooming Hughie Jennings for the job. It is possible that the serious illness of Hughie caused McGraw to change his plans.

This is McGraw's twenty-fourth year as manager of the New York Giants. During that time he has won 10 pennants. In this respect Connie Mack, with six wins for Philadelphia, is his closest rival. He is also the only manager to

HOFF AWAITS WORD FROM A. A. U. BOARD

LOS ANGELES, May 18.—Charley Hoff, world's champion pole vaulter, who is still a guest of Southern California, wants a speedy decision from the national committee of the Amateur Athletic union on his eligibility to compete in American track meets.

Hoff has been suspended by the A. A. U. because he failed to appear at a meet in San Francisco a week ago Saturday.

He was awaiting today a reply to his latest telegram to Frederick Rubien, executive chairman of the A. A. U. in New York, in which he asked that his reinstatement be made soon.

Hoff wants to compete with Southern California's pole vaulters before he leaves this section of the country.

He has won four pennants in either the National or American.

The best compliment I ever heard McGraw paid is the estimate rival league managers in the National League have on his value to his club as bench manager. Just 25 per cent more efficient is the way they rate the Giants with McGraw directing.

Mexican Youth Is Crucified In Jail

MEXICO CITY, May 18.—It has just been learned here that a 14-year-old youth, Jose Chacon, was crucified in the courtyard of the jail at Ciudad Hidalgo, Michoacan, by the other prisoners.

The boy had been arrested for mistreating his mother and grandmother.

When the others learned of his offense he was tied to a cross and no effort was made by anyone to release him. Hundreds of townspeople passed the jailyard to see the unusual spectacle.

PRaise Well Deserved

Addressing the fifteen representatives of United States Department of Agriculture farm extension work in eleven western states in Santa Ana yesterday, opportunity was taken by B. H. Crocheron, director of agricultural work of the University of California, to praise the work that has been done in this county by Harold E. Wahlberg, county agent, and his assistants and by the Orange County Farm Bureau. There is no man in California in a position to better judge the work that has been done here than is Professor Crocheron, for Professor Crocheron is in close touch not only with the work that is being done in every county in California but in counties in many other states.

To the words of commendation uttered by the university leader, The Register adds this message of congratulation and appreciation. We feel that the work done here has been worth untold thousands of dollars to the farmers and orchardists of the county. The betterment of methods in handling farms and orchards has resulted in increased production. That this is true was shown to the visitors yesterday through a presentation of numerous charts giving exact figures. Professor Crocheron emphasized the high value of accurate statistics, because, through them, doubting farmers can be shown the practical effects of various projects and methods recommended to growers.

The visitors were intensely interested in the drainage and soil reclamation work that is being done in the Buaro section, and were equally interested in the results attained by letting sunlight into walnut groves and in the figures produced to show the value of windbreaks. While some of our problems are different from the difficulties encountered by growers in some of the other eleven states represented, the principles involved were found to be much alike. The application of intelligent leadership and farming science works wonders everywhere. This county has been particularly fortunate in its leadership.

OBJECT TO SETTLEMENT

Some opposition to the French debt settlement as exists in this country is weakened by the bitter fight being made against it in France.

This is an unexpected development. It was generally supposed in America that the liberality of the terms would find ready acceptance on the other side. But evidently the agreement will have a hard time gaining ratification by the French Parliament. Naturally, the more the French kick about it, the more American critics tend to feel that it must be pretty good for this country.

There is no reason discernible for changing the impression here at the time the agreement was negotiated, that it is generous to France. Bankers figured that it holds France to the payment of only half of what she owes. This is accomplished not by cutting down the principal but by the equally effective process of cutting down future interest rates and actually cancelling the interest for several years.

What it amounts to is that America has shared that debt with France, fifty-fifty. No more could be asked on the ground that the debt was incurred in a joint war enterprise. America has done all that can be expected of her, and American taxpayers shoulder as much of the burden as French taxpayers. It is to be hoped that French opposition is based mainly on the difficulty of finding funds to meet even the small principal payments required immediately. Otherwise its attitude can only be interpreted as a desire to repudiate any settlement. Americans hope that is not the case.

NO DEFENSE DAY PLANNED

This year there will be no National Defense Day. Any alarm aroused by the announcement may melt away after a little consideration.

It is not evident that much has been accomplished by making a special defense feature of Armistice Day or the Fourth of July. At any rate, the government hasn't been satisfied with the celebrations on those dates, and hasn't found enough interest in the matter to fix some other date. The public, somehow or other, refuses to be interested in Defense Day.

This doesn't mean that the public isn't interested in national defense. It takes a lively interest in all practical aspects of military defense, and cheerfully pays what in former times would have been considered a crushing burden of taxation for the support of the army and navy and air service. But having entrusted the matter to those governmental departments, citizens are content with reminding the government frequently of their interest, and checking up on the defensive activities of Congress. That is as useful as parades and war-scare speech-making, and possibly better.

PISTOL-TOTING BANNED

A good measure has been passed by the New York senate for the control of gunmen. It forbids the carrying of pistols except by special license. It also adds five years to the penalty for a felony committed by any person in possession of a dangerous weapon, and makes the presence of a pistol in an automobile presumptive evidence of its possession by every occupant of the car.

Such a measure should reduce the number of crimes committed with revolvers. Criminal history of the last few years shows it is justified.

But why continue making these deadly weapons in such quantity, and selling them indiscriminately, as they are and will be made and sold until the states take uniform action against them, or Congress handles the situation adequately.

FEWER GRADE CROSSINGS

The federal government, in connection with its aid for state highways, is trying to reduce the number of grade crossings. The idea is not to insist too urgently on expensive elimination of existing crossings, but to take advantage of natural conditions to effect this in all new construction.

In the construction of federal aid roads in 1925, there were 259 grade crossings eliminated. The total elimination since the enactment of the highway aid legislation is 1380.

A good many grade crossings have been cut out by re-locating roads so as to avoid crossing railroad tracks entirely. Others were accomplished by the construction of underpasses and overhead crossings. This might well be the ideal for American highways: deep-foundation, hard-surface, and no track-level crossings.

City Planning Expert

The City Council of Pomona has just refused the request of the planning commission that Dr. Carol Aronovici of Berkeley be retained as municipal advisor to the commission.

Dr. Aronovici, it is understood, is soon to be asked to act in a similar capacity for the Riverside Planning commission, subject to approval of the council. What the probable fate of the request will be has not yet to the present been even hinted. It may be a denial as was the case in Pomona. Or the local council may adopt a more far-sighted policy than was followed in the neighboring city and employ Dr. Aronovici.

Without knowing the terms on which it is proposed to retain this noted planning expert, the proposal on its face is a good one. There is not a great city in the country today that could not have saved itself millions of dollars and tremendous inconvenience and inefficiency if a comprehensive plan of city development had been adopted. But most cities, like Topsy of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" fame, "just grew."

Riverside is growing rapidly. It is well laid out, as cities go, but with the continued creation of subdivisions it may find itself in the unpleasant position of Los Angeles. That city, which failed to make use of a plan, has recently been compelled to adopt a "major traffic plan" for new streets which will cost an enormous sum, but which was made absolutely necessary by the lack of traffic arteries.

It is always better to plan than to react. If Dr. Aronovici, an acknowledged city planning expert, can be obtained for a sum at all reasonable, it would seem to be the part of wisdom to retain him. Provided, of course, that his recommendations are heeded, after they are made. Otherwise the money paid him would better be saved.

Interest in Schools Needed

The public schools have a very serious problem—payment of just, adequate salaries to teachers; provision for retirement allowance and for tenure. If the co-operation of the fathers of the country can be had, this problem will be solved quickly and forever, according to Miss Mary McKimmon of Brookline, Mass., president of the National Educational association. "Taking a real interest in the schools means getting the fathers into the schools for an occasional hour," says Miss McKimmon. The men who pay the taxes do not know, understand or appreciate this problem. Until they do understand and appreciate it, the problem will persist in an unsolved and aggravated state.

Miss McKimmon is appealing in behalf, particularly, of teachers in rural districts. She points out that in these country communities the children are taught "by a procession of teachers, able only to endow living conditions until the term of their contract expires."

This shames this great nation. Fabulously rich, America spends some $15,000,000,000 annually on luxuries—on things not essential to existence. And only $2,000,000,000 is expended on public schools. Think what it would mean to the grand army of faithful teachers if $1,000,000,000 annually were lopped off the nation's bill for luxuries and were added to the school budgets, so that teachers could be paid more nearly in accordance with the intrinsic worth of their services.

His Political Honesty

Judge Alton Brooks Parker is likely to be remembered for his standing in the legal profession rather than for his success in the political arena. Yet his political honesty is worth remembering. When he wrote his famous "Gold Standard" telegram in the campaign against Theodore Roosevelt in 1904, Judge Parker knew that his message irretrievably put behind him all hope of gaining the highest honor within the gift of man. Yet he had the courage to state his position on the money question fearlessly. Possibly no American statesman ever made a greater sacrifice of political ambition to principle.

The effect of his sound money declaration was just what he foresaw it would be. A wedge was driven between the two factions of the Democratic party for Roosevelt to drive an army through.

Judge Parker's political candle had but a brief incandescence. But it lighted up a character singularly straightforward and politically honest.

Health Topics

Surgeon General, United States Health Service

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a series of four articles on vacations.)

A VACATION WARNING

If you are going camping on your vacation, you should be prepared to deal intelligently with hurts and accidents. You should know what to do in case of sudden illness.

If you are going some place far from a doctor you should provide yourself with a first aid kit and a few simple medicines. A useful kit should contain something like the following articles:

Two gauze bandages 2½ inches wide, two cotton bandages 3 inches wide, one roll adhesive plaster 1 inch wide, one dozen safety pins, one ounce absorbent cotton, one yard of plain sterile gauze, one ounce tincture of iodine, one dozen compound cathartic pills, two ounces bicarbonate of soda, one drachm permanganate of potash, four ounces castor oil, one clinic thermometer, one hot water bag.

It should be remembered that only the necessary first aid treatment should be given by one who is not familiar with the practice of medicine. In case of sudden illness see that the patient is put to bed and if the condition appears serious send for a doctor at once.

Pains can often be relieved by hot applications. In some cases, however, especially when fever is present, ice cold applications may be more serviceable. Headache may be relieved by cloths wrung out in cold water and frequently changed.

Pain in the abdomen is often the result of constipation and this condition should therefore be treated. On the other hand, colicky pains often accompany diarrhea. In all cases of diarrhea it is imperative to stop all food at once and give the patient plenty of water to drink. A twenty-four hour fast will frequently effect a cure.

If the patient is feverish and especially if the fever continues for more than a day be sure to call a doctor. In the meantime it will be well to keep the patient by himself for the disease may be catching. If he is hungry feed him nothing but milk until the doctor comes.

Forgiveness a Balsam

From the Essays of Louis H. Debaile

The forgiveness of the offense is balsam to the wound that has been inflicted on us.

One reacts in either of two ways against an offense and an insult: by reprisal or by forgiveness. The former provokes anger, renews the offense, disturbs tranquility and spirit and brings us to an ever rugged realm; the latter gives us internal peace because of the consciousness of duty performed and saves us the agitations and sufferings of vengeance.

To retaliation, which is "the justice of the unjust," oppose forgiveness, which is the reprisal of the just.

To keep alive the recollection of an offense and an insult is to renew them voluntarily and to preserve in our breast a noxious poison.

Vengeance is an effort at punishment that begins by wounding the adversary and ends by slaying the avenger.

We elevate ourselves above those that insult us by pardoning them, according to Napoleon.

Not only must we pardon the injuries we receive; we must learn to overlook offenses and even bad intentions.

Hatred does not destroy but engenders hatred. Only love can overcome hatred.

To regenerate by forgiveness is to reclaim morally. The rehabilitation of the Magdalen appeals more to the souls of men than even the resurrection of Lazarus.

Be not aggressive, pardon fluently, but let not your modesty and your kindness wholly conceal in the presence of your enemies the sword or the pen you are capable of wielding in your defense.

BIG PINES

Big pines far up against the blue,
Always hobnobbing with the sky—
Patrician vegetables you.
Your pedigree is old and high—
Or old and deep: for you must know
Of your ancestors' bones that lie
Deep in the dark cold measures. Oh,
Your family is old and proud,
You grow aristocrats! You grow
On hills, and talk to star and cloud,
Or guard the white throne of the peak,
While down the darkling gulches crowd
The birch and aspen, low and meek,
To elbow for the light and air
And gossip with the prattling creek.
Their tribe is yesterday's affair
Compared with yours. And what is mine?
A mushroom! Saber-tooth and bear
Whetted their claws upon a pine
When man, through many a slow relay,
Was yet a-comeing. High and fine,
With wind harps in your arms to play
And tunes first crooned when earth was new,
And loaf in your large, lordly way—
Big pines far up against the blue.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma started to take the baby out for a ride in the baby carriage this afternoon, and Mrs. Magee came up wheeling her baby, being Glasses Magee's new sister, saying, Good afternoon, Mrs. Potts, how's your baby?

Lovely, thank you, how's yours, ma sed.

Perfect, Mrs. Magee sed.

And they started to wheel them together, ma saying, The only thing that worries me, my baby has no name yet, I've thawed of any number of good names for a boy but my husband and I simply can't seem to agree, and the baby is getting infinitely too old to be wheeled around without a name.

That's just the identical way it is at my house, Mrs. Magee sed. Every time I think of a perfectly sweet name for a girl, my husband finds some objection to it. At first I wanted to name her Gladiola, my heart was quite set on that name, what do you think of Gladiola? she sed.

Very pretty and odd, I had a grate argument with my husband last night over the name Ropert, how does Ropert impress you as a boys name? ma sed.

I like it, its out of the ordinary, do you like Gladiola for a girl, somehow I can't keep away from the flowers, Mrs. Magee sed.

In favor of unusual names too, ma sed. Why give him a name that every Tom Dick and Harry has, such as Tom Dick and Harry in other words? Gilfoil and Thorndike are 2 favorites of mine, but I don't seem to make much headway with them when my husband enters the discussion, she sed.

I can sympathize with you, Mrs. Magee sed. If it was left to me I think this baby would either be Nasturela or Olenada, but Mr. Magee wants her called Jane, can you imagine such a thing? she sed, and ma sed, Indeed I can, because Mr. Potts wants this baby named Sam.

That's just the way it goes, isn't it? And they kept on wheeling them and I went to look for the fellows on account of not feeling like hearing any more.

California Politics

It's about time for Governor Richardson to make known to the waiting state that he is actually a candidate for re-election.

True, no one has any doubt about it. The ear-marks of candidacy have been everywhere. No-body familiar with state politics has had any question as to the governor's intentions.

Why would he have kept up an energetic press bureau? Why would his supporters be out building up his fences?

A Direct Question or Two

While we are asking questions, we notice it's quite a number of questions are being asked of the state administration. It is remembered that just before the election four years ago, Friend W. Richardson promised the voters of California that if elected he would save the state $115,000,000. That promise is referred to frequently up and down the state by those who are insisting that the governor make reply to figures presented by Lieutenant Governor C. C. Young, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor and who is declared by most of those who have been watching state politics to be by far the strongest of the governor's opponents for the Republican nomination.

A sample of what a lot of newspapers and what citizens in general who have studied state figures are asking appears editorially in the Sentinel, of Ramona, San Diego county:

Give Us the Figures

"Is it true that Governor Richardson's administration has been an economical one? His supporters repeatedly assert that it has, but his opponents have piled up figures almost without end showing conclusively that the state government has cost much more money during his administration than was ever spent by any administration before, and that instead of giving us an economical administration, he has actually given us an extravagant one.

"Now, what is the truth about it? The Richardson followers do not submit any figures to prove their contention so far as ordinary newspaper readers have discovered. They simply content themselves with making the unsupported claim. Apparently they assume that Governor Richardson having made his campaign for election upon a promise of economy in government, must have given the people what he promised and the only thing to do is to accept that claim at its face value.

"Which is far from fair. If Richardson has been an extravagant and inefficient governor, as his opponents insist, he ought for that reason alone to be defeated this year. If, in addition to that, he is now running for re-election on the claim that he has effected economy and efficiency in state government, while at the same time he has affected only extravagance and inefficiency, then he ought to be defeated for the additional reason that he is guilty of false pretense and political fraud.

"What the Richardson supporters ought to do, if the least said on making him a candidate for re-election this year, is to submit to the people some sound reasons for such action. If he has been economical, let them submit the figures showing economy. It can be easily done. Nothing has been necessarily hidden from the people. The expenditures of the state for the past three and a half years can all be obtained and made public, so there will be no doubt about it. Let them do this, and then if upon due investigation it is found that his opponents are misrepresenting him and thereby doing him an injustice, they should be properly rebuked therefor, and his renomination in August would be the best possible rebuke to administer. On the other hand, if they can't support that claim of economy and efficiency, and a complete exhibition of the figures shows that he has failed and is trying to impose that failure upon the people as a success in violation and disregard of the facts, his renomination would be a real calamity to the state.

"In any event, let the public know the facts. Give us the figures."
